Let's work together to usher in faster growth, Modi tells states

Urges setting up of district export promotion councils, purging of redundant laws

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

SAYING that the youth cannot wait for development any longer, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday asked the states to embark on the reform journey. Speaking at the sixth governing council meeting of the Niti Aayog, the prime minister exhorted chief ministers to align state budgets with the Union Budget, asking them to work on their respective pipeline of infrastructure projects, besides setting up task forces to lessen compliance burdens for the people and businesses.

Modi said private enterprises, which have shown much enthusiasm, should be embraced by the states for accelerated development. "The focus should be on ease of doing business for the international audience," said Modi, while making a mention of the liberalisation of geospatial data, adding had it been done a decade earlier "there would have been a Google from India."

He suggested the synchronisation of the Union and state budgets for multiplier effect. Modi dwelt at length on India's bid to become a global manufacturing hub, suggesting states should set up district export promotion councils, while identifying one product each for exporting.

"There's an all round eagerness to push forward with economic development. The youth of the country cannot wait," Modi said. The Centre, he said, weeded out 1,500 redundant laws and urged all states to do likewise. Niti Aayog Vice-Chairman Rajiv Kumar later said the CMs gave many actionable inputs on which it would work with the ministries. P9

DECLARE UPPER BHADRA, UKP AS NATIONAL PROJECTS: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa on Saturday requested Prime Minister Narendra Modi to declare the Upper Krishna and Upper Bhadra projects in the state as national projects.

During the sixth meeting of the Governing Council of the NITI Aayog held virtually on Saturday, the CM also sought central assistance for a number of projects in the state.

Sources in the Water Resources Department said the process of declaring the Upper Bhadra Project as national project has already been initiated and it is likely to be declared soon. Once it is done, the Central Government will provide nearly 90 per cent of funds for the projects, the sources said.

During the NITI Aayog meeting, the CM also sought approval for six proposals worth Rs 6,673 crore for modernisation of canals and additional grants were also sought for river diversion projects.

The State Government also requested the Centre to provide Rs 4,300 crore to create an optical fibre network to provide connectivity to all government offices. The CM also pitched for setting up a mechanism to fast-track disposal of cases in courts as infrastructure projects are hampered due to litigation and environmental protests. The State also sought financial support to take up initiatives under the National Educational Policy.

Toolkit doesn't sow disaffection, Disha tells HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

AN online 'toolkit' is merely a 'resource document', it does not 'sow disaffection' and there is no evidence to show the toolkit on farmers' protest is responsible for the violence on January 26, activist Disha Ravi told a Delhi court on Saturday as she sought bail.

"If highlighting the farmers' protest globally is sedition, I'm better (off) in jail," Disha said through her lawyer in court, which will give its decision on the bail on Tuesday.

The bail plea was strongly opposed by the Delhi Police, which alleged that Disha was preparing the toolkit with those advocating Khalistan and she was part of a global conspiracy to defame India and create unrest in the country in the garb of the farmers' protest. "This was not just a toolkit. The real plan was to defame India and create unrest here," the police told additional sessions judge Dharmender Rana. CONTINUED ON: 10

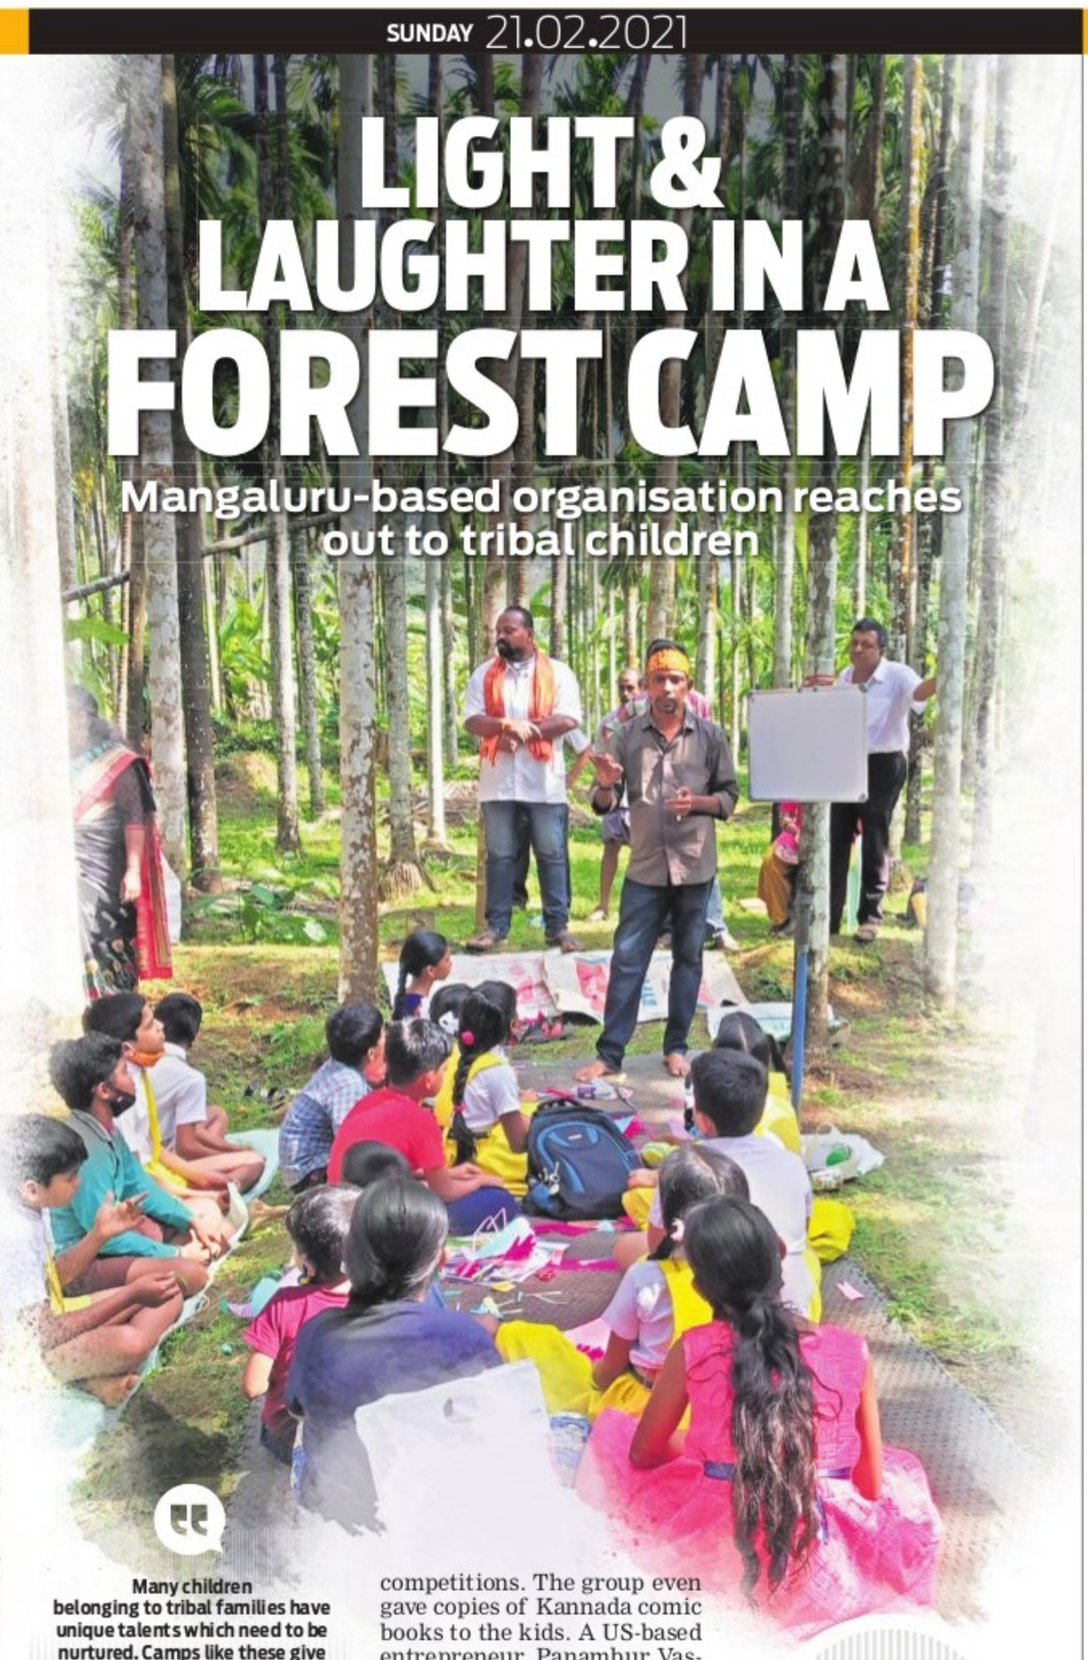
LIGHT & LAUGHTER IN A FOREST CAMP

Mangaluru-based organisation reaches out to tribal children



AMIT S UPADHYE @Joida

FOR the past three months, the forests of the Western Ghats in Uttara Kannada district saw an addition to its symphony of sounds: the laughter of boisterous children gathered in the clearings.

For most of the past year, the pandemic added a new dimension to distance the world over. While people with means, especially in cities, could remain connected with each other and the world outside their homes, those who were left out of the telecommunications infrastructure -- such as the children of tribal communities of Uttara Kannada district -- found their lives disrupted more than others.

Enter Sahyadri Sanchaya. The Mangaluru-based organisation headed by environmentalist Dinesh Holla decided to reach out to the children of the tribal Siddi and Kunbi communities.

"When the lockdown was implemented, students had a hard time being away from classes and routines. But many private schools were quick to organise online classes. The government's Vidyagama programme also helped many children. But tribal kids living in their hamlets somehow escaped focus. So, we decided to give these kids a fulfilling day to get together, sing and dance, and meet their friends. The idea was to motivate them and ensure they remain in touch with their studies and extra-curricular activities," Dinesh says.

Teams of a minimum of six people from Sahyadri Sanchaya travelled all over the district between November and February, contacting local school teachers. They held 32 camps, reaching out to around 800 children and 50 teachers. Starting with Kiravatti village in Yellapur taluk, and ending with Mestabiroda in Joida taluk, each camp was held near a school and had between 20-35 children.

Roopesh Naik, a Class 5 student belonging to the Kunbi community, says he had a great time when a camp was held in his hamlet Amshet in Joida. "I met my friends after a long time. We tried many crafts for the first time. Making kites and flying them was a great experience," he says.

Dinesh says that they organize camps for the tribal children of the region every year, but never on this scale. "Usually, we organize camps at one or two schools. But this year, we decided to extend it due to the lockdown, to reach out to kids deprived of classes and other programmes. We called the programme Vana Belaku (light of the forest)," Dinesh says.

Starting at 8.30 am, the children gather to make crafts, sing songs, tell stories, try mimicry, painting, kite-making and flying. "At some camps, even the parents tried their hand at crafts and enjoyed themselves," Dinesh says. The camp would be wrapped up after lunch, usually provided by the school or local administration.

Naturally, there were prizes -- chocolates and toys -- for the competitions. The group even gave copies of Kannada comic books to the kids. A US-based entrepreneur, Panambur Vasudev Aital, sponsored the camps.

"Most of the camps were held under a large tree in forested areas, some of which were on the fringes of forests. The kids enjoyed it as it had many interesting games for them. It was a new kind of camp for many children, who came to attend even when we could not reach them," says Yeswant Naik, a teacher at a school in Kumbarwada village, Joida taluk.

Another teacher, who was deputed to the district and declined to be named, says, "Compared to children living in villages and towns, tribal children already have several skills. Many young tribal children know medicinal plants and their uses. They graze cattle, and find their way to school through thick forests. Such camps bring out other hidden talents in many children," she says.

> Many children belonging to tribal families have unique talents which need to be nurtured. Camps like these give them a platform to showcase their talents. Many of these kids need to be recognised by the local authorities.
> Dinesh Holla, head of Sahyadri Sanchaya

> When we first heard about the camp, we were excited. And after we attended, we were happy with the outcome. We had never made kites by ourselves and it was one of the attractions.

THIS YOUNG MYSUREAN'S HEART BEATS FOR ART

KARTHIK K K @ Mysuru

GIVE him waste tyres, glass bottles or plastic bags, this 24-year-old youth from Mysuru turns them into a piece of art. Meet Rahul Manohara, a self-taught artist, who is exploring the field of art, besides specializing in making trash into artistic treasures.

Using technology as a learning tool, Rahul has honed his skills through the internet. Though he initially got expertise in simple sketches and acrylic painting, he went on to learn water painting, oil painting and giving graphite finishing and doing charcoal works.

Born to Manohara and Veena, Rahul had a great passion for sketching and painting from a very young age. He did not join any formal training and went on to practise via trial and error method. He participated in many school-level and state-level drawing and painting competitions bagging several awards which instilled confidence in him.

"Though my artworks were appreciated, I was doing them on paper and never used any canvas. At one time, I wanted my artworks to be exhibited, but had to rein in my enthusiasm when I saw artists using good artistic materials which I never tried. I came home, browsed the internet for hours together, saw many video tutorials related to presenting art works and on creating art works using waste materials," he says.

> Rahul's works are unique. He has also worked in several projects of mine and I am glad to say that he always comes out with creative experiments. His artworks reflect the society and various blots in the society. Self-taught artists like him need a good platform to shine
> --Keerthi Kanth, writer and filmmaker

From hundreds of landscapes, acrylic paintings to portrait sketches to charcoal artwork, Rahul dedicated himself to the art field completely. From creating awareness on social issues through murals to beautifying the walls that are lying in a neglected state, Rahul has also contributed to the beautification of several walls in Mysuru. He has also created various models of animals using waste materials and also a model of the Covid-19 virus for an awareness event.

From instilling hope during the pandemic through his art works to sensitizing people about solid waste management and cleanliness through his Swachh Survekshan paintings, Rahul has grown from an amateur artist to one working for social causes.

"Though the technology helped me learn various forms of art and crafts, I attribute my success and learning equally to nature and society. So whenever I find a blank wall or get an opportunity to beautify it, I fill it with colours and ensure that the artwork carries a social message," says Rahul, who has beautified the walls across the city spending money from his own pocket.

He has exhibited his artworks during the Mysuru winter festival, Open street festival and in Kodagu during the Kodagu Pravasi Utsava, besides holding art shows during the Suttur Utsava and many times in Bengaluru.

Thanking his parents, friends and other artists for the support, Rahul says, "My parents and friends have played a major role in my success and without their encouragement I could have not reached this position. My father has always been a driving force. Besides, noted artists like Badal Nanjundaswamy have always encouraged me to take up murals," he says.

Experts slam govt move to change Class 6 text

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@Bengaluru

THE government cannot teach children history without telling the truth in the guise that it is hurting the sentiments of a section of society, said Swaraj Abhiyan Karnataka, criticising the Karnataka Government's decision to omit the introduction to a lesson on Jainism and Buddhism in the Class 6 social science textbook.

In a circular dated February 17, the Karnataka Textbook Society, a statutory body that is the primary publisher of textbooks for the state education board, directed that the foreword to the chapter, 'The Rise of the New Religions', neither be taught nor used for evaluation for the current academic year. The chapter discusses the origins of Buddhism and Jainism.

It comes two months after the Karnataka State Brahmin Development Board met Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, objecting to parts of the chapter as it "hurts their religious sentiments".

Primary and Secondary Education Minister S Suresh Kumar said on Saturday, "It is impertinent for sixth standard students to study this. It would be appropriate for discussion at a later stage."

The government's decision drew flak from various quarters, saying the government should have sought the advice of an expert committee before trimming the chapter which had historical facts.

Kumar said he received a call from Mantralaya Swami, asking if the content was appropriate for Class 6 students. "Sentiments of any community should not be hurt, and seeds of hate to another community should not be sown in the minds of students. In the same class, lesson 6 teaches about Christianity and Islam and does not have a foreword that misinforms about another community or caste. Any such provocative writing will not help society and instead causes hurt to a community or caste," he added. He discussed with one expert when he was convinced that the text was unnecessary for young minds. "Other aspects of the lesson will remain untouched, " Kumar added.

Swaraj Abhiyan demanded that the government withdraw the notification and stop its attempts to hide the truth from young minds. "Young students have the right to know how animals were sacrificed in the name of yaga-yagnas. Along with the burning of foodgrains, milk and ghee in such rituals, which resulted in a severe shortage of food, sacrificing of animals used in farming affected food production. For your convenience, you cannot change history even if it is to appease a section. The matter should at least be referred to the Expert Committee that drafted the textbooks," said Elavarthi Manohar, Swaraj Abhiyan general secretary.

Meanwhile, the Department of Public Instruction has been directed to form a committee comprising experts and teachers to identify content in textbooks from class 1-10 which are hurtful to the sentiments of any community and take action.

> For your convenience, you cannot change history even if it is to appease a section. The matter should at least be referred to the Expert Committee that drafted the textbooks
> Elavarthi Manohar, general secretary, Swaraj Abhiyan

WHAT THE PORTION TO BE TRIMMED SAYS...

The foreword to the chapter says it was a prominent belief that performing rituals was the only way to achieve salvation and common people could neither afford them, nor understand the chants because they were in Sanskrit. Buddhism and Jainism advocated simpler ways to salvation and hence people preferred them. Part of the foreword read: "In Yagayajna, food items and milk and ghee is consumed. For the purpose farming (as rituals), animals were sacrificed, and this caused a scarcity of food... Those called Brahmins in the society had certain privileges. However, Kshatriyas came into prominence. Over the years, Kshatriyas became an alternative to Brahmins and new religions arose due to them -- Jainism and Buddhism was thus born."

The Intensified Mission Indradhanush has been launched across the country to immunise children aged 0-2 years and pregnant women. Belagavi, Davangere, Bagalkot, Ballari, Chikkaballapur, Kalaburagi, Raichur, Bidar, Koppal, Gadag, and Vijayapura districts will be covered in Karnataka, It will be held in February and March

NO LOCKDOWN YET IN STATE, SAYS SUDHAKAR

Won't close borders with Kerala, Maharashtra but will closely monitor situation, especially in border areas

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE State Government is not considering a lockdown yet, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar clarified on Saturday, a day after Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike Commissioner N Manjunatha Prasad cautioned that the city may have to go into a lockdown again if people fail to follow Covid norms strictly.

"So far, nothing has been decided. We are not looking at a partial or full lockdown. We want to implement measures and keep cases low. This can happen through cooperation of people and on how they follow Covid norms. Everyone needs to take precautions and stay safe," he said.

While Karnataka will not close borders with Kerala and Maharashtra, where cases are high, government officials and police, especially in border districts, will take measures to check the spread of the disease in the state, he added.

After making it mandatory for people coming in from Kerala to produce a negative RT-PCR test report not older than 72 hours on arrival in the state, the State Government extended the restriction to those entering from Maharashtra too.

"In the past, Maharashtra has on an average seen 5,000 cases a day. On Friday, 44 deaths were recorded with a mortality rate of 2.48%. In Kerala, over 4,000 cases are being recorded with 60,000 active cases. People from Maharashtra and Kerala come through Dakshina Kannada, Udupi, Kodagu, Belagavi, Hubballi, Mysuru and Chamarajnagar. District officials there should take measures to contain cases in the state," he said.

He admitted that there are instances of people coming unchecked without an RT-PCR test. But police and health officials are keeping a strict vigil to check each person's Covid report.

Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa tweeted, "Karnataka is fully aware of the rising number of Covid cases in Maharashtra and Kerala and we are closely monitoring the situation. Necessary precautions have been taken. Citizens must cooperate with security measures."

A video conference will be held with deputy commissioners of all districts regarding measures to be taken. If the government succeeds in preventing the second wave, the question of lockdown doesn't arise, Dr Sudhakar said.

VACCINATION

Dr K Sudhakar said that Karnataka is in the top position in the country vaccinating the highest number of people. But the coverage is only 37% with many beneficiaries not turning up. "High level officials from municipalities, revenue and home department, and well-known doctors have taken the vaccine and have had no side-effects. We must not listen to false news on social media and avoid getting vaccinated. My request to all health workers is to come forward and get the jab. The Modi government is providing the vaccine free of cost. All frontline staff must take the jab. The CM will hold a video conference with all district administrations with regard to this. There are no major side-effects and death are unlikely to be caused by vaccination," Sudhakar said.

STRICT VIGIL

RTPCR -ve must for those coming from Maharashtra

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE State Government has issued a protocol to check the Covid status of people coming in to Karnataka from Maharashtra as Covid cases in the neighbouring state are high.

The protocol, issued by the state's Technical Advisory Committee, will also be applicable to people who have come over the past two weeks. People entering the state by any means of transport must also have a negative RTPCR test report not older than 72 hours.

Those who do not have the certificate will be reported to the nodal person/authorities and made to stay in the designated "quarantine room" until an RTPCR test report says they are negative for Covid. The samples of people who test positive will be sent to NIMHANS for genomic sequencing.

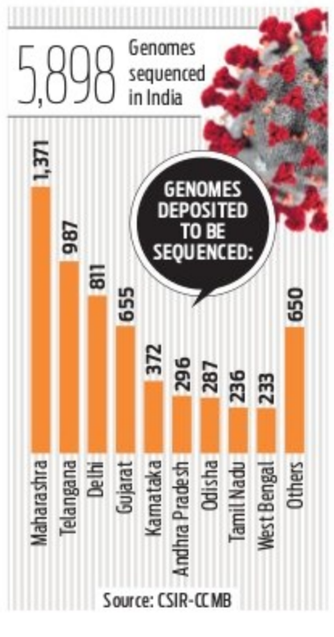
The Covid status of air passengers will be checked by airline staff at the time of boarding, while that of railway passengers will be checked by TTEs. People travelling by bus will have to produce a negative report at the time of physical booking or before boarding in case of online booking.People checking into resorts, hostels, hotels, homestays and other such accommodation must also produce a negative RT-PCR report not older than 72 hours.

In case of a cluster of five or more cases in hostels, boarding, residential or educational institutions, guidelines state that such places must be declared containment zones by local authorities. Seven days after the containment zone is declared, students and staff must undergo an RTPCR test.

Hostel inmates will not be allowed to have visitors without obtaining permission from the nodal officers. A list of students travelling to and from Maharashtra must be maintained, and people coming from the neighbouring state must produce a Covid negative report not older than 72 hours each time they arrive from the state. Students who commute between the two states every day will be tested every fortnight.

Short-term travellers between the two states will also have to produce a negative test report not older than 72 hours which will be valid for seven days. Employees from Maharashtra who work in Karnataka must undergo RTPCR tests and bear the expenses themselves.

N440K variant spreading more in South India, shows study



CHETANA BELAGERE
@Bengaluru

AS the demand for increasing genome sequencing of SARS-CoV2 is getting louder in the country, a recent study suggests that a particular variant of the novel coronavirus is spreading "a lot more" in the southern states of the country.

Researchers and scientists at the Hyderabad-based Centre for Cellular and Molecular Biology (CSIR-CCMB) analysed more than 5,000 coronavirus variants detected in the country and their evolution over the course of the pandemic.

Aaccording to a press release issued by CSIR-CCMB, the N440K and a few other variants are spreading faster in some states and virus mutation will result in new variants.

"A closer surveillance is needed to understand its spread properly. Accurate and timely detection of new variants that may show greater infectivity or worse clinical symptoms, including immune escape, will be extremely important to preempt disastrous consequences," CCMB Director Rakesh Mishra stated in the release.

The virus variants -- immune-escape E484K mutation and the N501Y mutation -- that are worrying many countries globally have only a low prevalence in the country so far.

"However, their apparent low prevalence might be simply because not enough sequencing has been done. More coronavirus genomes need to be sequenced across the country to accurately identify the emergence of these and other new variants," said Dr Mishra, who is also the corresponding author of the study.

Epidemiologist Dr Giridhara Babu, who has been an advocate of increased genomic surveillance, agreed.

"We need to be continuously vigilant and ensure that containment measures are very strict in detecting outbreaks early. It is better to track the growth rate of cases, test positivity and watch out for clustering of cases. Some of the identified strains are highly infectious, we need to strengthen surveillance across state," he said.

Bioethics researcher Anant Bhan said, "With international and domestic travel and social interactions increasing, it is important to keep a watch for new variants through surveillance."

Health and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar said, "Ten labs for genome sequencing are being set up. Strict vigilance along Maharashtra-Karnataka border has been ordered. Samples are also being sent for genome sequencing."

With international and domestic travel and social interactions increasing, it is important to keep a watch for new variants through surveillance

AS FUND COLLECTION FOR RAM TEMPLE GOES ON AT A FURIOUS PACE, TNSE LOOKS AT BOTH SIDES OF THE CAMPAIGN

Ensure transparency, let funds be transferred online for Ram Temple: HDK

RAMU PATIL @Bengaluru

FORMER chief minister HD Kumaraswamy's remarks on fund collection for the construction of Ram Temple at Ayodhya has kicked up a political storm, with the BJP and right-wing organisations slamming the JDS leader and accusing him of trying to woo the minority communities with his statement. But Kumaraswamy insists that he is not against the construction of the temple, but is only highlighting the need for transparency in fund collection and suggesting online fund transfer to avoid doubts. The VHP or temple construction trust should issue identity cards to those collecting funds, he told The New Sunday Express. Excerpts of the interview:

Why did you raise questions over collection of funds for Ram Temple?
I have no objection to the construction of Ram Temple at Ayodhya. Let them build it well and I will extend my full support for it. I have only questioned the way the funds are being collected forcibly. Such incidents have come to my notice, and they are also marking houses, which is being done across the country. How do we know who are the authorised people to collect funds when many groups are going around? I suggest that the Vishwa Hindu Parishad (VHP) or the Ram Temple Construction Trust issue identity cards to those authorised to make collections and they should be the only ones going around. This is only a suggestion, and I have not made any allegation against anyone.

You said that those who came to collect funds threatened you?
I am not against donating funds and many of our party members have done it. But no authorised person approached me for donations. Recently, three people came to our house. They did not reveal their identities but claimed that they were responsible citizens of the country and demanded money. On what guarantee should I have given them the money? A woman, who was with them, spoke to me rudely. But I did not take it seriously as all kinds of people come to us seeking help.

What are your specific suggestions?
Online transfer of funds will ensure transparency. Under the Jan Dhan Scheme, started by the Narendra Modi government, everyone has bank accounts. Whether it is Rs 5, 10 or more, let them transfer it from their bank accounts. I am only questioning the lack of transparency. Till now, they have not told the people how much money is required for the construction of the temple and how long this collection drive will go on.

You called it religious corruption...?
Transparency is important to avoid any doubts. Ram's name should not be spoiled or misused for collecting money. That is why I used the term religious corruption. There was no politics in what I said.

You are accused of making such statements to please the minority community...
It is not possible to please any community by taking up such an issue and that was not my intention. Over the last 15 years, they have taken advantage of Lord Rama's name, and now, a temple is being built in Uttar Pradesh. We all know what is happening in that state and how women are being treated. Are they following the concept of Ram Rajya? I respect Lord Rama more than they do and even tried to practise the concept of Rama Rajya when I was in power. I am again making it clear that I am not against temple construction and if authorised people approach me tomorrow, I am willing to contribute. My suggestion is to bring in transparency and not allow Ram's name to be misused.

I have no objection to the construction of Ram Temple at Ayodhya. I have only questioned the way the funds are being collected forcibly

There's no compulsion on anyone to contribute. It applies to former CMs too. They need not give if they wish not to
Sri Vishwaprasanna Theertha of Pejawar Mutt

HDK should have filed a police complaint against volunteers: Pejawar seer

PRAKASH SAMAGA @Udupi

SRI Vishwaprasanna Theertha of Pejawar Mutt in Udupi, one of the trustees of the 'Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra' trust, says RSS and VHP have been given the responsibility of collecting funds for the construction of Ram Temple as they are the biggest institutions in the country. On former CM H D Kumaraswamy's allegation that he was threatened by some volunteers during the fund collection drive, the seer asks how can one be sure whether these charges are true, though there could be truth in it. Kumaraswamy should file a police complaint against such people, he adds. Excerpts:

How is the Ram Temple fund collection drive going on? Why was the responsibility given to VHP?
Fund collection is going on according to our plan and people are more enthusiastic than expected. The VHP and RSS have been given the responsibility as they are the biggest institutions in the country with unparalleled stature. The drive was launched simultaneously across the country to avoid corruption.

Are you responsible for seeking funds only in South?
No such division of responsibility among trustees was made. I would have visited North India states, but time is not permitting. I have limited my visits to Southern states. We have collected over ₹1,000 crore, and the drive will continue till Magha Poornima (February 27). Later too people can contribute by remitting the money to the Trust bank account.

Why was the physical collection of funds preferred, and not an online drive?
It was for a reason. In rural parts, villagers have to travel some distance to reach banks and their access to banking activities is not at a level that urbanites think it is. We had to roll this out as a physical campaign to enable everyone to be a part of this historic movement. As many people wanted to contribute, the network of VHP and RSS was put to work for their convenience.

Former CMs H D Kumaraswamy and Siddaramaiah are wary of the drive. HDK has said VHP volunteers are marking households that did not contribute...
There is no compulsion on anyone to contribute. It applies to former CMs too. A false impression is being created that houses that do not contribute are being marked. VHP volunteers ran out of coupons and receipt books as there was unexpected response. To keep the drive transparent, houses would have been marked to facilitate volunteers to return and collect funds later with receipt book.

How do people know those collecting funds are from VHP?
We had to make the drive convenient for people. We made sure that VHP volunteers collected funds from their areas and not from other places. People knew these volunteers.

The episode narrated by Kumaraswamy that three volunteers threatened him for not contributing garnered media attention...
Kumaraswamy is a former chief minister. The matter would have been closed if he had filed a police complaint. He did not name or identify those 'volunteers'. How can one accept his statement as true? I am not saying that this incident did not happen to him. But, he has the option of filing the complaint. Speaking against the work of institutions like VHP is not correct on his part. Some politicians also questioned who gave VHP the power to reach out to the people at their doorsteps. My answer is... the same system that allows politicians to go door to door seeking votes has given volunteers the power to collect funds.

The Ram Mandir being built at Siddaramana Hundi | UDAYSHANKAR S

SIDDARAMAIAH TURNS PATRON FOR RAM MANDIR AT NATIVE VILLAGE

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mysuru

FORMER Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, who had strongly opposed the manner in which funds are being collected from the public for the Ram temple coming up at Ayodhya, is quietly backing the construction of a grand Ram Mandir at his native village Siddaramana Hundi near here.

The temple has been built on a 30x40 ft plot with contributions from the villagers. Siddaramaiah, however, chose not to reveal about his contribution, but is said to be a major force behind it. Refusing to give details about the cost of the project and his role, he said the construction was taken up with the contributions of the villagers. "Ram Mandirs are built everywhere. It is the religious belief of people," he noted.

The Ahinda leader had previously donated silver articles including a mace and face cover for the idol at Siddarameshwara temple, his family deity.

Accusing the BJP of using the Ram temple issue for political gains, he said that they should know that the people are contributing to the Ram temple and not for BJP. "I have every right to ask for accounts, whether I contribute or not, because it is public money. Any hesitation to give details about the collection will lead to doubts about misuse of funds. The BJP had raised funds earlier, but did not give accounts. What does this mean"? he asked.

The villagers of Siddaramanahundi are happy that they will have a new Ram Mandir for Ram Navami. Manjesh, a villager, lauded Siddaramaiah for respecting the sentiments of the people and for his generous help in the construction of the Ram Mandir.

When the Ram Mandir is ready, the villagers plan to invite their relatives and friends from neighbouring villages to take part in the inauguration and the Ustav.

Task force set up to boost integrated farming: CM

WHILE the PM asked the states to focus on ease of doing business as well as on ease of living, he was briefed about initiatives taken by the Karnataka government for industrial development, including affidavit-based clearance system, steps taken to promote exports, MoUs with e-commerce firms like Amazon and Flipkart to boost marketing of local products.

"Karnataka has been able to maintain one of the lowest unemployment rates in the country at 3.6 per cent. A task force to promote integrated farming system has been set up and growing millets is being promoted to improve nutrition levels," Yediyurappa noted.

The chief minister also informed that the State Government intends to set up Scientific Marketing Intelligence Cell in order to shift focus on income-based policy to increase farmers' incomes.

The government also intended to create an online marketing platform for surplus fruits and vegetables, supported by infrastructure facilities, under the Atmanirbhar scheme and a water security plan is being developed in 41 over-exploited taluks under Atal Bahu Jal Yojna.

The state also plans to follow NITI Aayog's 49 aspirational indicators to monitor the progress of 114 backward taluks, he added.

10L to attend Panchamasali meet in B'luru today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TO bring pressure on the State Government to consider their demand for inclusion in the 2A reservation category, a convention of Panchamasali (Lingayat) community will be held in Bengaluru's Palace Grounds on Sunday. The community leaders expect around 10 lakh people to attend the event. They are planning to intensify the agitation if the government fails to respond to their demand by Sunday evening.

Former MLA Vijayanand Kashappanavar, who is also the president of Lingayat Panchamasali Mahasabha, said that 10 lakh people from 18 districts will be present at the venue. "If the State Government fails to take a decision by Sunday evening, we will intensify the stir and start a protest outside Vidhana Soudha," he threatened.

Sri Jaya Mruthyunjaya Swami and Sri Vachanananda Swami, who took out a padayatra from Basavakalyan to Bengaluru for the cause, will lead the convention. A number of senior leaders from all political parties, including ministers Murugesh Nirani and C C Patil, are expected to attend.

"We are asking for reservation in education and employment and the State Government can take the decision without constituting any panel," Kashappanavar said.

Preparations on in full swing at Bengaluru's Palace Grounds that will host a mega convention of the Panchamasali community on Sunday | ASHISHKRISHNAH P

Those attending the meet have been told that they should be ready to stay in Bengaluru for 2-3 days as they may have to continue their agitation. "When Jagadish Shettar was CM in 2012, a House panel headed by C M Udasi was formed to look into the demand, and the report stated that Lingayat Panchamasalis should be included in 2A category. There is no need for any report now," he added. "There are 108 subsects among Lingayats ... 34 have been given 2A category and also OBC status by the Centre. Apart from demanding the State Government to give 2A reservation, we also want the Centre to grant OBC status to the remaining 74 subsects," he said.

Meanwhile, Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai said the issue was discussed at the Cabinet meeting and they will proceed further after consulting legal experts.

Govt to give industry status to big hotels

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TO help the hospitality sector that was hit by Covid, the State Government has decided to give industry status to big hotels. Tourism Minister CP Yogeshwara on Saturday said the decision will give a boost to the tourism sector too. Small hotels, however, will not get the tag.

The Hotel Association of India (HAI) thanked the State Government for according the status. The decision will enable hotels to avail benefits in electricity tariffs, property tax, refinancing of existing debts, hassle-free loans at subsidised interest rates, taxation and simplified approval process for hotel projects, the association said. Somnath Mukherjee, member of Karnataka State Committee, HAI, said the hotel sector will benefit from the 'industry status'. It will help in the long run and unlock its immense potential to make a significant contribution to the State's GDP and jobs, helping the post-pandemic economic revival of the region, he stated.

Knock, knock! Ashoka, DCs stay overnight at villages

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TAKING administration to the doorsteps of the people --- Deputy Commissioners, Assistant Commissioners, Tahsildars and revenue officials stayed overnight at 227 villages across the State. They listened to the woes of the villagers, and resolved many, according to officials.

Revenue Minister R Ashoka had announced last month that officials would visit villages every third Saturday of the month and attend to issues.

Ashoka himself stayed at Hosahalli village in Doddaballapur, Bengaluru Rural, on Saturday night as part of the Grama Vastavya (village stay) initiative. He spent the night in a social welfare hostel.

Minister R Ashoka at Doddaballapur on Saturday | EXPRESS

"Our government is keen in making Karnataka a Grama Rajya and Rama Rajya," he said.

The team visited a Dalit colony and saw 8 to 10 people living in a small house. There were also one-room tenements where three families lived. "Five acres of land were sanctioned on the spot to construct houses for them. This order was conveyed to the Deputy Commissioner. This is expected to help 400 families who will get 20 by 30 feet sites. Land has been identified and the houses will be built under the Ashraya scheme," he said.

During his stay, Ashok met a young girl with hearing impairment, studying in Class 8. "She was tested and provided hearing equipment. We got a complaint about the encroachment of a graveyard which had shrunk from 3 acres to 1 acre. Boundary was fixed and encroachment removed," Ashoka said.

According to him, about 700 people were given land-related documents like khata. Speaking to reporters, Ashoka said they usually end up giving long speeches whenever they visit a place. "This time, no speeches, only work. We will do it every month and I too will visit one village. This time, I have chosen the Bengaluru region. Next month, it will be Kalyana Karnataka and in April, it will be Malnad. Likewise, I will cover the entire state," he said.

Every year, the State government spends ₹7,500 crore for pensions. "We are here to see if this is actually reaching the eligible people," he added.

Ashoka said the DCs and officials have to send a message through the drummers one month in advance about their proposed visit.

Bommai says more police reforms soon

DG&IGP Praveen Sood will submit report on this likely by March 31: Home Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Udupi

THERE will be some tangible changes in police administration in Karnataka to enhance efficiency of the department once DG&IGP Praveen Sood submits a report on police reforms to the Home department. The government is expecting the report by March 31, said Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai. The exercise is mainly for people-friendly policing and ushering in a new culture in the functioning of the department, he said.

Inaugurating 48 police quarters under Police Gruha 2020 here on Saturday, Bommai said the report is expected to pave the way for more change in the manner in which the department functions. Help desks will be the norm at police stations with the police personnel focusing on total crime control in a free and transparent manner. The report will also highlight the facilities required for police personnel and their families, Bommai added.

The minister lauded the work of the police force in the war against drugs. Synthetic drugs, foreign drugs and peddlers, arms and ammunition sold on the dark web are now on the sights of the state police, he said.

On the use of social media to foment social unrest, Bommai said the police will treat such attempts as acts of treason and deal with the perpetrators with an iron hand. The warning comes close on the heels of his direction to Mangaluru City Police to book a case against the leader of a political outfit for his statement urging people not to donate to Ram Temple.

Bommai said that state government has assured a total of 11,000 houses to police personnel under 'Gruha-2020' scheme, which ends in in March. He told reporters that 48 houses in Karkala and 16 houses in Kaup are being built for police personnel under the scheme. In all, 10,400 houses will be built to cover of 65 per cent of the needs, he added.

B'LURU EMERGING AS HUB OF DIGITAL ACTIVISM

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

BENGALURU is emerging as the centre of online "activism", which has come under the radar of law enforcement agencies for alleged anti-national content. Mehdi Masroor Biswas, Abhay Nayak and now Disha Ravi, all from Bengaluru, have been arrested under stringent sections of the law for alleged online anti-national propaganda.

Disha is the first person to be arrested in the farmer toolkit case, which was registered by the Delhi police on February 3 against the "creators" of the controversial online document, which the police claim has hyperlinks to secessionist and anti-India websites.

On June 1, 2018, Abhay Nayak, a resident of Bengaluru, was arrested by the Chhattisgarh police at the Indira Gandhi International Airport, New Delhi, soon after he had landed from his trip to Europe, where he had gone to present his paper on artificial consciousness at a neuroscience conference and explore options for PhD, his father Devdas Nayak had stated.

The Chhattisgarh police had charged Abhay for being the spokesperson of the banned Extreme Left-Wing outfit – the Communist Party of India (Maoist). He was accused of spearheading the Maoist online propaganda campaign and travelling to countries, which have a presence of the Coordination Committee of Maoist Parties and Organisations of South Asia, or CCOMPOSA, an international umbrella body of 10 left-wing extremist groups active in Bangladesh, India, Nepal and Sri Lanka, the police had stated.

Abhay was arrested on charges of criminal conspiracy, Explosive Substances Act and the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act. He is lodged in Jagdalpur prison. The trial in his case is on.

On December 13, 2014, the Bengaluru City police had arrested an alleged pro-Islamic State of Syria & Iraq (ISIS) propagandist Mehdi Masroor Biswas from an apartment in Jalahalli in Bengaluru, North. Mehdi, then 24, was a former executive in a giant food conglomerate in Bengaluru.

He was outed in a covert interview with the British public-service television broadcaster 'Channel 4', in which he had reportedly 'confessed' that he was behind the Twitter handle @ShamiWintess, which had a large following, including two-thirds of all foreign fighters, who had allegedly joined ISIS. Later, Mehdi in an interview with an Indian media, had denied that @ShamiWitness was his Twitter handle.

Mehdi was the first person to be arrested in a case of cyber terrorism in Bengaluru. He has been charged under Sections 18 and 39 of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, Section 125 of the IPC for waging war against an Asiatic power in alliance or at peace with the Government of India and Section 66 of the Information Technology (IT) Act. Mehdi has been lodged in judicial custody at the Bengaluru Central Prison since December 2014. The trial in his case is on.

POLITICAL POLARISATION BIGGEST THREAT TO PEACE, SAYS NAVEEN

Hallmark of democracy is that once elected, govts work for people, says Odisha CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bhubaneswar

SOUNDING a cautionary note over increasing political polarisation in the country, Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik on Saturday said this kind of an atmosphere is one of the biggest threats to the pace of development and peace.

Addressing the sixth governing council meeting of the NITI Aayog, the Chief Minister said, elections are an essential feature of democracy.

"The hallmark of a mature democracy is that once elected, governments are meant to work for people, beyond party line. It is high time that we as a country have serious introspection on whether we are able to do the same," he stated. Pointing at the growing trend of politicisation of issues and happenings, the Chief Minister said, "Every crime is being politicised, every action of an elected government is being seen from a political angle," and added, "This kind of an atmosphere is one of the biggest threats to the pace of development and peace in the country. It is high time the country gets out of this election mode and allows elected governments to function."

He called for a unified response and inclusive approach to all major challenges facing the country in the true spirit of cooperative federalism. Citing the Covid-19 pandemic, Naveen said, while the world struggled with the unprecedented challenge, India showed with its unified response what could be possible. "The European countries and the United States could not put up a unified front," he noted.

Referring to the promise made by national parties on the passing of the Women's Reservation Bill both in the Lok Sabha and state Assemblies, the Chief Minister warned that history will not forgive if this is not fulfilled. He also called upon NITI Aayog to play a leading role in ensuring committed and targeted action for regions which are neglected and populations that are vulnerable. "Specific sections like malnutrition, connectivity and sex ratio imbalances need focus," he said.

He made the appeal while addressing the sixth governing council meeting of NITI Aayog. He also requested for Cauvery to be rejuvenated on the lines of the Namami Gange project. "The Centre is requested to accord sanction and extend financial assistance to Tamil Nadu for this at the earliest," he said.

Speaking on the achievements of his government, Palaniswami said Tamil Nadu was handling the pandemic situation through concerted efforts. "A series of timely and effective measures, effective RT-PCR testing and tracking, and conduct of fever camps, have ensured a total control of the spread of Covid in our State," the Chief Minister said.

FKCCI members meet FM, seek tax exemptions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

UNION Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Saturday assured the Federation of Karnataka Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FKCCI) that she would look into their plea for tax exemption for some sectors or allow them to repay the loans at lower interest.

The minister is in Bengaluru on a two-day visit to hold post-budget interactions with industrialists, members from various chambers of commerce and entrepreneurs. On Saturday, she held a meeting at her office with various stakeholders.

FKCCI president Sundar Perikal told The New Indian Express that they had appealed to her to revive many sectors that did not get any benefit in the recent budget. "Due to Covid-19 and lockdown, many sectors, including the hotel industry, tourism, taxi drivers and education are hit. They have taken loans. Since there was no business, they were not able to repay their loans which had resulted in Non Performing Assets in banks. We appealed for tax exemption or to allow them to repay loans at lower interest," he said.

He said they brought to the minister's notice some technical issues related to GST payment. "In the Budget, the minister had announced that those with a Rs 10 crore annual turnover would not require an audit. But banks are insisting on the audit, without which they won't give loans. We have explained it to her," he said.

He said she took their memorandum and assured to look into it. On Sunday, the minister will interact with the Bangalore Chamber of Industry and Commerce members and other stakeholders. She will also visit the BJP head office at Malleswaram. She will leave for Delhi on Sunday night.

Close shave for 64 as flight hits electric pole

ENS @Vijayawada

AT least 64 passengers and crew on board an Air India Express flight from Doha had a close shave after one of its wings hit an electric pole adjacent to the runway at Vijayawada International Airport in Gannavaram on Saturday. None of the passengers suffered any injuries.

According to airport officials, the incident took place around 5 pm. While the flight from Doha was proceeding from the runway to bay No. 5, the captain followed the leading margin (yellow) instead of the central yellow line. As a result, the flight's right wing hit the high mast light pole. The pole fell down due to the impact and the flight came to a halt. Of the 64 passengers, 19 were scheduled to disembark at Gannavaram airport, while the remaining are heading to Tiruchirapalli.

"We just experienced a small jerk and the flight came to a halt even before it reached the terminal. Luckily, no one was injured," Rama Reddy, a passenger who disembarked at the airport, told the media. Airport officials rushed to the spot and got the passengers disembarked safely from the flight. Repair works are underway. Sources said a special flight was arranged for the remaining passengers and it departed from the terminal around 9.30 pm.

Implement NEERI's plans for restoration of three lakes, BBMP told

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has directed the Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) to implement the recommendations of the National Environmental Engineering Research Institute (NEERI) concerning Arehalli, Kamakshi Palya and Tavarekere lakes. A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order after perusing the Volume-9 of NEERI's report containing restoration plans for these three lakes.

In its report, NEERI has observed that the restoration plans are the basic plans and detailed restoration plans for these three lakes will be given in Phase-II report, which will include the master plan for each lake.

On Arehalli Lake, the BBMP counsel submitted that fencing around the lake would be taken up. He stated that a provision had to be made in the BBMP budget of 2021-22. He also submitted that the work of dewatering of the lake before desilting and removal of superficial sediment up to a depth of 3 metres would be undertaken.

The Bench directed the BBMP to consider involving the residents nearby in the work of removal of superficial sediment. BBMP should ensure that there are no encroachments made on the lake area, the Bench added.

As regards Kamakshi Palya Lake, the BBMP counsel expressed some reservations on taking up the work of deepening the lake on the ground that the area was too small. In reply, the Bench directed the BBMP to seek NEERI's opinion on this.

As far as NEERI's recommendation regarding controlling the discharge of effluents into the lake, the Bench directed the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) to take immediate steps to stop it.

On Tavarekere Lake, the BBMP counsel said that NEERI's recommendation of removing the unwanted silt up to a depth of 2 metres and the work of deepening of the lake would be undertaken.

Company to pay ₹10L for filing multiple pleas

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court imposed an exemplary cost of Rs 10 lakh on 'India Awake For Transparency', a non-government company, for filing multiple petitions before different courts against business tycoon Azim H Premji and his associates on the same issue. Justice P S Dinesh Kumar imposed the cost while dismissing a petition filed by the company.

The judge said that this was the third writ petition filed in succession by the company against different authorities to initiate action in a matter of acquisition of shares and amalgamation of the firm. "Though, the petitioner was forewarned, he chose to argue this petition as a standalone petition wasting the time of the court to deal with such frivolous cases. Hence, the preliminary objection raised by the respondents' counsels are sustained, and this writ petition is dismissed with a cost of Rs 10 lakh payable by the petitioner," the judge said.

Man, aide held for orchestrating theft at friend's house, booty worth Rs 1 cr recovered

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Pulakeshi Nagar police have arrested two men who had allegedly committed theft at a female friend's house and had escaped with valuables worth over Rs 1 crore. The accused had spilt chilli powder in the house to destroy evidence and had changed several autorickshaws to throw the police off their tracks, police said.

The accused have been identified as Nazeem Shareef alias Shaheed (41), a resident of Lakkansandra, and Mohammed Shafiulla (42), a resident of New Gurappanapalya near Suddaguntepalya.

Police said the theft had taken place on January 13 in the house of Jyoti Jwala (28), an employee of a private company who was Nazeem Shareef's friend for a few years. She lived with her brother in an apartment on M M Road in Cox Town, and had gone to a hospital where her brother was undergoing treatment on the day of the incident. The theft was noticed when she returned home that night and she filed a complaint the next day.

"The CCTV footage from the apartment revealed that the accused Shafiulla, who had stolen valuables including the safe locker, had escaped on her two-wheeler," the police said.

"Analysing footage from various surveillance cameras took 15-20 days and it was found that Shafiulla had abandoned the complainant's vehicle near Ulsoor Lake, from where he took an autorickshaw. He changed autos at MG Road, Hosur Road, and Bannerghatta Main Road to avoid detection. He was last seen going up to Lakkasandra 3rd Cross and there were no visuals after that point. Through informants, the accused was finally traced and arrested," the police said.

The police first picked up Shafiulla and Shareef was arrested based on information provided by him. "Shareef was into real estate business, while Shafiulla was in the granite supply business. Both had suffered huge losses and were in dire need of money. Shareef told Shafiualla that he had a rich friend and they can make money if they commit theft in her house, and Shafiulla agreed," the police added.

The duo hatched a plan and accordingly, Shareef managed to get a duplicate key to the house when he dropped his friend at a beauty parlour a few days before the incident. "A few days after, her brother was hospitalised and the accused took advantage of the situation. To avoid suspicion, Shareef was with Jwala at the hospital while Shafiulla was committing theft at her house," the police said.

Shafiulla had to given the booty to Shareef, who broke open the safe locker which had Indian and foreign currency.

The accused had shared the booty and we have recovered Rs 37 lakh, foreign currency worth Rs 12 lakh, gold jewellery, expensive watches, a car, and other valuables, totally worth Rs 1 crore

2021 STATE POLLS: THE OPPOSITION'S IDENTITY CRISIS

A senior Congressman once famously said that death is not necessarily a pre-condition for rigor mortis to set in. The wily and witty characterisation of a Congress regime aptly captures the current state of the Opposition as five states head for polls and India into a summer of hectic politics.

It has been over 351 weeks since the Modi Sarkar came into being. In these 80 months, the BJP has ruthlessly trolled opponents and rolled on to expand its footprint across the political landscape — it has occupied attention, enlarged affiliation, is in power in 15 states and is challenging the suzerainty of regional rulers in West Bengal, Odisha and Telangana.

The Opposition, in stark contrast, is in retreat floundering against the Modi-Shah juggernaut and struggling to preserve relevance. In their preoccupation with ricocheting rhetoric, the Opposition seems caught in a cul-de-sac perpetually waiting for Modi to blunder. The Opposition has vacated the arena of competing ideas. Unsurprisingly, it has an identity crisis.

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

Political affiliation does draw on what a party opposes, but fundamentally rests on what the party stands for. Opposition parties are unhinged from people and public purpose. To enable mass mobilisation, parties must evolve to re-invent themselves — on where they stand with the government for public good, and what is that competing idea which separates them from the BJP.

Individual charisma matters. But it is ideas which define the individual and craft the charisma. The Republican Party's success under Ronald Reagan was based on a plank of an alternate vision of America wrapped in Reaganesque charisma. Tony Blair recrafted the Labour Party to expand its vision of what it stood for in British politics even at the risk of being dubbed 'Tory' Blair and ensured victory.

In the run up to the 2014 election, Narendra Modi arrived with the Gujarat Model and an alternate vision for India. The campaign was designed in such a way that people chose to see in him what they looked for. Modi's approach to public policy is entrepreneurial and rests on what delivers political dividends — whether it was the pro-poor programming of policy in the first term, or the opening up of agri-sector and the promise of privatisation in 2021. The ideological plank crafted by Modi stretches from Garibi Hatao to Thatcherism and is scaffolded by aggressive nationalism and Hindutva.

It is not that the BJP has always got it right. It had a series of implosions from 2004 to 2012. It had a wishy-washy view on public policy — on FDI, retail and it even partnered with the Left in opposing the nuclear deal and the infamous trust vote. But, it reinvented itself around 'Moditva'.

As with nuclear physics, social science demands the need for the coming together of a catalyst, conditions and critical mass for a chain reaction — in politics this translates as a catalysing idea to woo a critical mass and the organisational muscle to mobilise affiliation. The Congress lacks leadership and its organisation is in tatters. The regional satraps harbour foggy notions and national ambitions. Neither has shown the capacity to present an alternate vision.

Take the agitation against farm laws. Almost every party has critiqued the constraints hurting farming and has proposed/supported reforms at some time or the other. Yet not one party or a coalition has presented a solution or an alternate Bill which preserves the rights of farmers without hurting potential. Similarly, whether it is on Article 370 or CAA or NRC, the parties have expressed dissent but waffled on alternatives.

The Congress Party inhabits a universe of its own. Its members are obsessing about who they will follow and not what they represent. It is yet to figure out whether its leader is coming or going — it is seven years since the 2013 coronation in contextually appropriate Jaipur. It seems the post coronation observation 'power is poison' weighs heavily on the party.

Its articulation of dissent on socio-political issues is self-defeating. Its leader promises to defend Tamil interests in Chennai, forgetting the IPKF chapter of the eighties and the 1963 notification imposing Hindi which ousted it from the state. It has charged that the BJP is anti-minority in its formulation of programmes and policies. Ideally, the charge of selective exclusion is better represented by invoking the guarantee of equality enshrined in the Constitution. That though has not occurred to the party steeped in tokenism of the 42nd Amendment. Its idiom of disagreement reeks of yester-year thinking.

Its choices on economic policies reflect the confusion and disconnect with popular aspirations. It has opposed the very reforms in farm laws which it proposed in its manifesto. The party has reason to worry that its stand on disinvestment in 2021 is exactly that of the Left Front in the nineties —unsurprising since the party which initiated liberalisation in 1991 also instituted a committee in 1998 as a section believed reforms were anti-poor.

Finally the age of politics as the CSR wing of family businesses is over. Success in politics demands more than cameo election appearances. The BJP under Modi is a relentless 24x7 machine focussed on domination and expansion of an idea. It can only be challenged by a competing idea. Challenging it calls for total commitment — and competing ideas.

MODI VS DISHA RAVI AND DISHA WINS!

POINT OF VIEW

TJS GEORGE

WHAT a mess our country is in? A college student, all of 22 years old, is picked up from her home and taken to Delhi without prescribed legal papers. Her crime? She used internet devices to support the farmers' march. This girl, Disha Ravi, is not in politics. She belongs to no party. She is just a young girl with enough civic sense to be interested in environmental issues. Many young people are similarly concerned these days, and that is one of the strengths of India. It is astonishing that authorities should see this as a threat necessitating the jailing of students.

P Chidambaram made a pertinent comment on the matter when he said: "If a 22-year-old student of Mount Carmel College is a threat to India, then the foundations of India are broken. India is turning into a theatre of the absurd." Shashi Tharoor put it pithily: "Activists are in jail while terror accused are on bail."

When popular support evaporates, rulers turn autocratic. This time-tested principle seems to be proving itself again in India. Foreign observers are noticing it and bringing it to the attention of the world. Sweden's V-Dem Institute now lists India among the top ten countries most quickly becoming autocracies. "It is on the verge of losing its status as a democracy due to severely shrinking space for the media, civil society and the opposition."

Time magazine raises the question: How long will Joe Biden pretend that Narendra Modi's India is a democratic ally? "Hate speech is rife, peaceful dissent is criminalised, freedom of expression and association faces new constraints, and the jails are filling up with political prisoners and peaceful dissenters as a servile judiciary looks away." The world can hardly believe what is overtaking India.

In this evolving India, bizarre ideas find easy takers. The latest brainwave attributed to Amit Shah is that there are plans to get the BJP active in Nepal and Sri Lanka. This was publicly stated by Tripura's BJP Chief Minister Biplab Deb. He said Amit Shah assured the party that this would be accomplished. It is a mystery that Amit Shah does not want the BJP to take over Bangladesh and Thailand on one side and Afghanistan and Iran on the other. Doesn't he want them also to prosper under the inspiring colors of the BJP?

The Prime Minister joined the chorus with a surprising remark — that previous governments had not named places after leaders like Subhas Chandra Bose, BR Ambedkar and Sardar Patel. Either Modi was arguing for the sake of argument, or he was betraying a surprising level of ignorance. There is hardly a town in India without a Netaji Road. Ambedkar statues outnumber statues of any other leader. Patel is not as popular as Bose or Ambedkar, but he too has many vidyalayas and chowks named after him. Modi weakened his own argument by ignoring these facts. He assumed, as is his wont, that the country would swallow whatever he says.

In Bengaluru, not only activists and farmers but also students and writers came out in large numbers to protest against the arrest. Many saw the arrest as a sign of the Modi Government feeling insecure and paranoid

In fact, Modi's new moves have strengthened the world's view of him as a self-centred, autocratic leader who is doing India more harm than good. The world no doubt noticed the extent of protests that broke out in India when Disha Ravi was seized by the police. All but the BJP saw her arrest as a violation of basic citizenship rights. It struck them as part of an attempt to silence all opposition. Haryana's extremist home minister Anil Vij went on record with the statement that all those with seeds of anti-nationalist thoughts "should be destroyed". He would be the first in the list if anti-nationalism were to be properly defined.

The widespread protest that broke out against Disha Ravi's arrest pointed to the gap between the people's sentiments and the BJP sentiments. In Bengaluru, not only activists and farmers but also students and writers came out in large numbers to protest against the arrest. Many saw the arrest as a sign of the Modi Government feeling insecure and paranoid. The arrest proved counter-productive when Disha's supporters launched a digital campaign #fingeronyourlips to show how the Government was gagging people. Modi is losing on all fronts. He will tighten his authoritarian grip. It is a game where eventually people will win, even if one generation has to bear the brunt of dictatorial rule. Modi vs People. What an anticlimax.

THE rulers of the world are logging into outrage, as the gravy trains of billionaire Digital Darth Vaders take on millions of clueless passengers on their digital platforms. There is nothing like a free lunch as Google and Facebook are finding out from Australia's pushy prime minister Scott Morrison who has lassoed in India's Narendra Modi to take a stand against Zuckerberg and Co —news brokers who line their pockets without paying for what they sell.

This is no kangaroo court. Australia recently woke up to the fact that the indomitable Internet giants have been picking its pockets for almost a decade at high social and economic cost. Global leaders are mesmerised by their instant reach and connectivity without visible costs to either the government or users. From presidents and prime ministers of the most powerful nations to the rich and the famous, influencers are made to believe that technology-driven social servers make the world a better place to earn and exist. Promoted as a cheap and fast communication tool, the Internet has proved noted Canadian philosopher and media theorist Marshall McLuhan right but at a very high cost.

Published in the '60s, McLuhan's book 'The Gutenberg Galaxy' had predicted the emergence of the Global Village. He had claimed that technology would connect people across the world through fast personal interactions. He believed that people dive into the electronic age; they would reach out to each other with the click of a mouse. They would be able to share videos, pictures and even cultural events online. Though computer scientists Vinton Cerf and Bob Kahn are credited with inventing Internet communication protocols, it was young entrepreneurs such as Larry Page and Mark Zuckerberg who commercialised McLuhan's idea. They took it beyond just connecting people. Zuckerberg and his ilk are influencing not only the political narrative but also dictating tastes and lifestyles through peeping Tom software that pulverises privacy. By promising free virtual access worldwide, they are minting money faster than any federal bank. They are the new Lords of Mindspace. Digital serfdom is their new Empire. They are the evil peddlers of individual privacy.

It was only last week that 17 million Australian Facebook users woke up to the strangulating grip of Demonic Dotcoms. When their government asked Facebook and Google to pay for the media content they lift for free to purvey globally, Virtual Villain Zuckerberg — who has been making sucker bergs of people — responded by shutting down those Facebook pages that post and access health-related information. They were shocked by the immense market power of the freeloading tech tarantula, which has woven a web of deceit with toxic tools. Oz isn't fighting a lonely battle against America's money-maniacal mercenaries. In fact, many more countries including China, for reasons of their own, have been battling against social networking's monopolistic malarkey and unethical interventions in politics and culture.

Almost all global leaders are ruing the day they gave hi-tech high fives for unfettered use of technology in governance and communication. They are convinced that the current digital architecture would bring them closer to their target audience at minimum cost. But they hardly realise that these platforms are being used to infiltrate the system, create algorithms to expand businesses of search engines and the behavioral patterns of the users. They have put in place a system that enables them to collect personal data.

After becoming the cheapest means of communication, the Digital media, as they call themselves, is an individual's most sought-after personal asset. Using their aggressively seductive sales strategies, Tech Moguls have made themselves indispensable. No individual can survive or thrive without a social media platform and digital connectivity. Gander at the enormous reach of Digital and Social Media platforms:

Owned by Alphabet Inc, the Google search engine is used by over five billion users daily — 228 million an hour or four million a minute. Google owns around 90 per cent of the Global search market. Add YouTube's one billion video views per day, the oligopoly of 'A for Alphabet to Z for Zuckerberg' is a given. Gmail is used by every third person in the world.

Promoted by Zuckerburg, Facebook with over 2.5 billion active monthly users has become the largest global social media platform with a market capitalisation of around $800 billion. 2.45 billion monthly active Facebook users registered as of 2019 — making it the biggest social media platform on the earth. Of these 1.65 billion are logging in on a daily basis. India with 250 million users accounts for its largest single market. Over 55 per cent of its advertising audience is less than 34 years old.

Twitter has become the most powerful tool for social and market influencing and manipulation. With over 340 million monthly accounts, around 190 million Twitter users use it almost on a daily basis. While the US with 69 million Twitter accountholders tops the list, India with 18 million active accounts is the third largest market for Twitter.

Zuckerberg has been his dinner partner and Jack Dorsey never bothered about Trump's inflammable tweets. But once they realised that he was on his way out, Trump went on from being Most Wanted to Most Unwanted

In the past 15 years, Facebook has acquired 78 companies, including Instagram and WhatsApp, to consolidate its hold over the dissemination of news and views. When Zuckerberg bought Instagram, it had only 30 million users and no revenue. Today Instagram boasts billion monthly active users, with 500 million daily users, and is estimated to have contributed $9 billion to Facebook's revenue two years ago. Global celebrities use Instagram to promote themselves and charge huge money.

Not only do Internet companies wield fearsome financial force, they can topple elected governments and influence the viability of business ventures. If a government or a leader dares to challenge their avarice, they suitably alter the contours of the establishment to fall in line. They use those in power to expand their footprint. For example, Twitter and Facebook were perceived as the strong promoters of Donald Trump and his ideas of the world and the US. His Twitter account was followed by the largest number of Americans. Many other rulers in other countries enjoy a similar privilege. It is no coincidence that the number of followers and friends on Twitter and Facebook surge when a leader assumes office. But once he or she is about to be ousted, their accounts are blocked. For four years, Trump was the emperor of the digital world. Zuckerberg has been his dinner partner and Jack Dorsey never bothered about Trump's inflammable tweets. But once they realised that he was on his way out, Trump went on from being Most Wanted to Most Unwanted.

Though the dotcom drummers claim to be neutral, they have been giving maximum exposure to divisive and discriminatory content, forcing various governments to impose restrictions on their operations. Recently, India held Twitter accountable and demanded it to take down certain posts and close certain accounts, alleging they foment anti-India sentiments. Dotoms can get away with murder because they do not operate under local laws. A former executive termed them as "tools that are ripping apart the social fabric of society work", and ensures that there is "no civil discourse, no cooperation; misinformation, mistruth".

Occasionally, Facebook has apologised for its misdemeanors. But the growing mistrust in its style and substance is amplifying. However, the meekly mediocre moves against them by most regimes prove that Technology Titans can ensure tectonic shifts in the system. Since they are adored by liberals and admired by nationalists, their supremacy is likely to remain intact. Their success has become a major threat to freedom of expression and genuine democracy. They will make and unmake the rulers of the global village. Yet, there is still a chance of Facebook losing face, if not its clout. Leaders of the world unite! You have nothing to lose except your Tweets and Facebook fakery!

Let's switch to green energy

Let all vehicles of India use solar batteries or green hydrogen instead of expensive petrol (that hit a century price). This will save money and pollution too. If not available sufficiently in India, they may be imported urgently from Germany, China, Australia, the US, etc. The Government of India may ease imports regulations via waivers. Set up more of these solar batteries industries in India to increase employment opportunities and save imports extra revenue (with first preference to the displaced unemployed people of petroleum industry). Easy, compact rooftop solar panels may be set up like Australia. Where there is a will there is a way.

Sreedharan for BJP

'Metro Man' Sreedharan is eager to join the BJP and he wants to be declared/projected as the chief minister if the BJP comes to power in Kerala after the Assembly elections. This seems to be far fetched as it is doubtful whether the BJP is in a position to grab power from its current position and whether his desire to be the chief minister will be honoured by the BJP considering his age now. In any case relaxing the age bar may be a big challenge for the party and it is also curious that he has put forth this condition for his joining the party.

Privatisation not the answer

Why bank privatisation at all? If it's burden of bad debts, much of it is the creation of successive governments at the Centre. PSBs can very well survive without budgetary support, if they are at least freed from big ticket lending. Why can the Centre not think on that line? Selling viable banks will not ultimately be in public interest. With only SBI remaining in public sector, a possibility in near future, social and priority sector lending will take a hit. In mass recruitments also, the private banks cannot be expected to deliver the goods. No amount of fresh legislation and regulations can help. Lastly, we have enough examples of private banks failing under the weight of bad lending.

Reach out to the angry youth

The protest of the candidates related to PSC appointments in Kerala is gaining strength. When the youth take to the streets to get the job and status they deserve, the government's attitude towards the struggle is utterly satanic. The future of many young people is in the decision of the CM and the government who are not ready to admit or correct the fact that the government's nepotistic backdoor appointments are the reason why candidates are not recruited. The government should abandon its current stubbornness and be prepared to accept the legitimate demands of job seekers.

Human capital matters

Referring to the column 'Samudra Manthan of the Indian economy' (Feb 20), as per elementary economics, the foremost factor of capital is labour, whose thought and ability shapes the ultimate product. Hence, human capital must not be neglected but vitalised for optimum result. India's dream of five trillion-dollar economy or 'athmanirbhar Bharat' can only be achieved through proper nurturing of human capital with adequate investment in health, education, social security, etc. The gap between the have and have nots must be eliminated first.

Overhaul education set-up

This is with reference to 'Anger of the jobless in Kerala' (Feb 20). While I totally agree with 'favouritism and political consideration' being a rationale for unemployment issues, we should also ask ourselves- Is it the only reason? Unemployment is a problem but if we ponder it deeply – Is it the work opportunities which are reducing or is it the nature of our work which is changing? Why not consider the fact that, the root of the problem is starting from our education system?

Modi backs agri reforms, Captain bats for farmers

At Niti Aayog meet, PM calls for investment in farm sector infra

MANISH ANAND & HARPREET BAJWA @ New Delhi/Chandigarh

THE Sixth Niti Aayog Governing Council meeting saw PM Narendra Modi make a strong case for the agricultural reforms saying they were necessary for transformation of the sector. Unlimited opportunities awaited the farmers, the PM stressed, adding that necessary investment in infrastructure and modernisation would be the key to realise the potential.

"We spend about ₹65,000 crore in the import of edible oils which can easily go to our farmers. In pulses, we used to spend much in import, but the policy steps ensured that the farmers now meet the demand. The result of a number of steps is evident in the rise of export of agricultural produce even during Covid-19 pandemic," said the Prime Minister. He argued that export of processed food can give multifold income to farmers for which necessary infrastructure along with modernisation would be essential.

The PM in his remarks, which were endorsed by a number of CMs, also called for "agro-climatic regional planning".

While PM's forceful assertions in favour of the agri reforms received support from Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, who said procurement of paddy had gone in up in the state substantially — from 20 lakh metric tonne earlier to over 30 lakh metric tonne after scrapping the APMC mandis in 2006 — his Punjab counterpart Amarinder Singh expressed serious concern over the threat to the agriculture sector as a result of the disruption caused by the farm agitation and sought immediate resolution of grievances of the farmers.

Amarinder said legislation on agriculture, which is a state subject, should remain in the domain of the state governments. Since the farm laws impacted a large part of the population, a larger consultation was required, he added, and asserted that the Centre should address the grievances of the farmers to their full satisfaction.

> The private sector is coming forward with enthusiasm. As a govt, we also have to honour this enthusiasm, the energy of the private sector, and give it as much opportunity
> Narendra Modi, Prime Minister

Amarinder called upon the PM to dispel the apprehension of the farmers that the MSP-based procurement may be discontinued in line with the Shanta Kumar Committee recommendations of 2015. Amarinder reiterated the state government's demand for bonus of ₹100 per quintal of paddy procured as 'paddy straw management compensation', which can be used for purchase or rental of new equipment, attaining the skills for efficient use, and to reduce cost of operation and maintenance.

Consult us on vaccine targets first: Punjab

Punjab CM Amarinder Singh urged the Centre to consult with the state before fixing priorities for COVID-19 vaccination. He also requested the Centre to release the pending amount of GST compensation of ₹8,253 crore for the period of April 2020-January 2021. He requested the Centre to allow 100 per cent use of SDRF towards expenditure for COVID management, instead of the present ceiling of 50 per cent. In the event of SDRF budget exceeding due to Covid-related matters, the state may also be allowed to utilise previous years available funds, he suggested.

Haryana seeks help to resolve SYL logjam

Haryana sought the Centre's intervention in resolving the long pending issue of Sutlej Yamuna Link and Hansi-Butana Link Canal so that it gets legitimate share of river water. This, Chief Minister M L Khattar said, would solve Haryana's water woes. Many areas is becoming 'dark zone' due to water shortage, he added. Haryana is at the forefront of GST collection but despite that the state gets only 20 per cent GST due to input tax credit, he said. Khattar urged the Prime Minister to formulate a plan for incentivising the states having the maximum GST collection.

Special status for Bihar must: Nitish

Bihar CM Nitish Kumar again sought special status for his state at the Sixth Governing Council Meeting of NITI Aayog. Bihar being a landlocked state needs to accelerate industrial growth with the support from the Centre, he said. Nitish also raised an old demand being made from 2011 for a harbour in neighbouring sea-facing Odisha. "If the harbour facility is developed in Odisha, this will help Bihar to a great extent..." He also expressed the need of promoting ethanol production from sugarcane in the state to reduce dependence on diesel and petrol as fuels.

Airports: PPP model benefits under lens

KUMAR VIKRAM @ New Delhi

NO comparative study has been conducted by the Airport Authority of India (AAI) to show that the PPP model would be more beneficial for the growth of the aviation industry in India.

The fact gains significance as AAI Board had, in its meeting on September 5, 2019, approved leasing of six more airports — Bhubaneswar, Varanasi, Amritsar, Raipur, Indore and Trichy — for undertaking operations, management and development through PPP model.

A parliamentary panel also analysed the share of AAI in the gross revenue earned by DIAL and MIAL, which run two busiest airports — Delhi and Mumbai. It noted a declining trend in the case of DIAL and demanded to know the reasons.

AAI REVENUE SHARE (IN ₹CRORE)

Year	DIAL	MIAL
2014-15	3,225.62	931.25
2015-16	3,741.41	1,066.06
2016-17	4,280.86	1,187.70
2017-18	2,306.38	1,330.61
2018-19	1,835.33	1,437.69

(Source: Standing Committee report)

The panel also noted the huge amount to be spent by the government on the airports approved for privatisation. It sought to know from the government the arrangement between the private operators and AAI under PPP model where the AAI has to spend ₹7,291 crore on these airports though the responsibility to Design, Build, Finance, Operate and Transfer is that of the private operators/promoters.

In response to the panel's query on whether any comparative study was carried out by any independent agency on the functioning and performance of AAI managed vis-a-vis private airports, the AAI said no comparative study was conducted to show that PPP model would be more beneficial for the growth of aviation industry. It, however, added that DIAL and MIAL had brought improvements at airport infrastructure which "transformed the passenger experience, improved efficiency and capacity for airline operators and delivered revenues" to the AAI.

The revenue share of AAI in the gross revenue earned by DIAL initially saw an upward curve between 2014 and 2017, but thereafter it reflected a declining trend. The panel, however, noticed that AAI's share of the gross revenue earned by MIAL has shown consistently an increasing trend.

The panel's report suggested that audit be conducted to ensure there are no leakages in revenues.

Unnao teen's condition improves, off ventilator

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE lone surviving minor girl among the three, who were found unconscious and tied in their farm at Baburaha village in Unnao on Wednesday night, regained consciousness at a Kanpur hospital on Saturday.

According to Kanpur SSP/DIG Preetinder Singh, the girl was taken off the ventilator on Saturday. "The doctors have stated that the girl is showing the signs of improvement, so she has been taken off the ventilator," Singh said. "She is under watch of doctors and is being given essential medical aid."

The victim and her two minor sisters were poisoned through water laced with insecticide. A heavy police force is deployed at the hospital to ensure law and order.

Hospital authorities exercised caution saying the girl was still not in a condition to record her statement narrating the sequence of events.

"On being called upon, she responds and opens her eyes. When asked about her well-being, she nods her head. Once she fully shows signs of improvement, her statement will be recorded before a magistrate. Her family members were only allowed to see her from a distance in the ICU," said inspector Kakadeo Kunj Bihari Mishra.

During preliminary assessment, the girl was found to be in a state of shock.

"Taking it to be a suspected case of poisoning, she was immediately admitted to the ICU of the paediatric ward," the hospital said in a medical bulletin.

The victim was admitted to the hospital and put under ventilation. Later, she was shifted to the ICU and rigorous treatment was given to her, the medical bulletin stated. On Saturday, the girl was put off the ventilator, it added.

The police had cracked the case on Friday by arresting two people in connection with the deaths of the two minor girls.

Maldives gets India's backing for UNGA presidency

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE@ New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishanakar on Friday held talks with his Maldivian counterpart Abdulla Shahid and handed over 1 lakh additional doses of Covid vaccine to the country.

The two leaders discussed bilateral issues, the pandemic and various projects being developed under Indian assistance and also cooperation in multilateral platforms.

"Ours is an extraordinarily deep partnership. Our time-tested relationship is posed today for a quantum jump, scaling new heights. India's first and largest COVID-19 vaccine support was given to the Maldives. It is the first country where India-made vaccines landed. I extend strong support to Maldives Foreign Minister Abdulla Shahid for his candidature for Presidentship of 76th session of United Nations General Assembly," Jaishankar said at a joint press conference. "We are partners in development, but also in promoting peace and security in the region."

The foreign minister is on a two-leg tour to Maldives and Mauritius and will call on Maldivian President Ibrahim Solih and others.

Later, Jaishankar addressed an event on youth and sports where he announced a $40 million line of credit for sports infrastructure development in the Maldives.

"Maldives is a young nation and Maldivians have tremendous sporting talent. The fastest man in South Asia, Hassan Saaid, is a proud Maldivian and has received training in India," the minister said, adding that he looked forward to the day when he could see the Maldives cricket team at a major international event.

Archive of Covid escape variants now in India

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

WITH immune escape variants of coronavirus causing global concern, Indian experts have come up with a repository of SARS-CoV-2 immune escape variants encompassing a total of 532 variants accounting for 146 unique variants tested against 75 antibodies and patient convalescent plasma.

The resource by experts from the CSIR Institute of Genomics and Integrative Biology and Academy of Scientific and Innovative Research enables the user to gain access to an extensive annotation of SARS-CoV-2 escape mutations which would contribute to exploring and understanding the underlying mechanisms of immune response against the pathogen.

According to authors, the lack of a systematic effort to compile genetic variants in SARS-CoV-2 associated with immune escape motivated us to compile the information in a relevant, searchable and accessible format. "We compiled a total of 532 entries from 19 recent publications which studied SARS-CoV-2variants and their effect on immune escape. This encompassed a total of 146 unique variants spanning spike protein, ORF1ab and ORF3. The compiled list was associated with 75 unique SARS-CoV-2 antibodies and patient polyclonal sera," said the authors.

"With evidence emerging on genetic variants in SARS-CoV-2 associated with resistance to monoclonal antibodies and convalescent plasma using in-vitro assays have provided a unique insight into the structural and functional mechanisms whereby the pathogen could evolve and evade antibodies. These insights could have enormous implications in efficacy of vaccines currently being used as well as under trials."

Genetic variants in the SARS-CoV-2 genome and evidence suggesting association with immune escape were systematically catalogued by authors. A significant number of variants were associated with escape or resistance to a range of neutralizing and monoclonal antibodies, while a small subset were associated with resistance to convalescent plasma. The data was compiled by manual curation of literature available from peer-reviewed publications and preprints and comprehending the evidence mentioned in the articles.

'STUDENTS, TOURISTS WILL HELP BOOST INDIA-IRELAND TIES'

IRISH Ambassador to India Brendan Ward told Pushkar Banakar in an interview that people-to-people links raise the familiarity of each country with the other and drive trade in goods, services, and investment. Excerpts:

India and Ireland relations are on the rise with booming trade ties and also people-to-people connections. How can they take their ties forward, especially in the post-pandemic era?
Ireland greatly values the growing Indian community in our country, which now numbers over 40,000. I am proud that the Irish government ensured Indian students in Ireland received good support during the pandemic, and Irish visitors to India were helped very well by the Indian government too. The trust and respect this engenders will help take our bilateral ties forward. We hope more Indian students will come to Ireland and that tourism links between the two countries continue to recover.

Do you think the Virtual Showcase being held for the students will help more Indians choose Ireland as their preferred destination for higher studies?
Despite the challenges posed by the pandemic, students and families are continuing to plan for the future and invest in their education. The Virtual Showcase, all about Ireland, allows students and parents to engage in a number of ways. There are chat rooms, options for video calls with admissions and academics staff and a virtual seminar room. One of the seminar sessions is a live chat with Indian students currently studying in Ireland.

What was the idea behind the Virtual Showcase for students and what are its main attractions?
This Virtual Showcase, which takes place on February 27, is one the biggest 'Education in Ireland' events of the year. It is essentially an education fair bringing together 20 of Ireland's top higher education institutions with prospective students from all across India and Sri Lanka. To date, over 6,000 students have registered for the event.

Essentially this event presents to Indian and Sri Lankan students Ireland's undergraduate and postgraduate offering for the September 2021 and January 2022 intakes. Students can discuss their options with Irish admissions staff and academics either in chat rooms or via video call and can learn about entry requirements, course content, scholarships and post-study work opportunities. Officials from the Irish government's Visa Office in New Delhi will also be present to provide latest advice and clarifications with regard to the visa application policy.

With the pandemic enveloping the world, many students and parents are sceptical about sending their children to study, especially in Europe. How has the government of Ireland taken precautions?
When Covid-19 began to spread throughout Europe almost a year ago now, a significant number of international students were studying in Ireland at the time. The Irish government quickly confirmed that healthcare support would be provided at no cost to students of any nationality who were directly affected by Covid-19. On the academic side, all lecturers and tutorials were delivered online for students.

The online delivery continued into the September 2020 intake, with the exception of some practical and laboratory sessions. Over 3,000 students from India began programmes during this time. Significant support was put in place for them.

The current academic year has not been an easy one, but international students have shown great spirit, flexibility and resilience. The two-year stay-back option for graduates at Masters level has very much remained in place to allow international graduates to seek employment opportunities in Ireland, despite the challenges of the pandemic.

The pandemic has also shown the need for diverse supply chains and with many IT giants choosing to set up business in Ireland. Do you think this will boost the influx of professionals as well as students?
I believe it will...The increasing diversity and career options that multinational and Irish IT companies offer to graduating students is a strong draw for students to choose Ireland. Irish companies also engage well with their counterparts in India due to a shared language and strong IT culture, and Indians with experience in Ireland are invaluable to this growing market. Indians with experience in Ireland also do very well across the EU and the US, due to the training and cultural exposure they gain in Ireland.

Given the fall in the number of tourists due to the pandemic, is Ireland planning any concession for Indian tourists?
Ireland will continue to provide concession to Indian tourists. The British Irish visa scheme has really been a good driver for increasing the Indian footfall and we will soon reintroduce it...We are confident that Ireland will continue to be on the bucket list of Indian travellers once the borders open.

BJP cries foul as Central forces land in Bengal

Alleges state government deploying them in a way to serve the interests of ruling party

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

THE first batch of Central Police Force (CPF) personnel arrived in West Bengal on Assembly election duty on Saturday. With their arrival, began the game of blaming and counter blaming.

A BJP delegation met the state's Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) Aariz Aftab and complained that the state government has deployed the central forces in a manner that will serve the interest of the ruling party. Alleging that the CPF was not sent to areas which have witnessed widespread violence, they requested the CEO to convene an all-party meeting. The ruling TMC refuted this claim.

The delegation also mentioned to the CEO that contractual staff have been registered at the district level as Group D staff to perform the duties of polling personnel, which is illegal as they are not regular government employees and not answerable to anyone.

"It has come to our notice that the state government has allocated CPF to various districts in a manner that will serve the interest of the party in power, without any regard to areas which have witnessed violence. No point will be served if CPF goes on route marches on national and state highways instead of sensitive areas,'' alleged BJP's Rajya Sabha MP Swapan Dasgupta.

Requesting an all-party meeting, Dasgupta wrote: "In the interest of confidence building among voters to ensure free and fair polls, we request you to call the meeting at the earliest so that all stake-holders can give their suggestions."

On Saturday, 12 companies of CPF arrived in West Bengal. Four of them have been deployed in Kolkata and adjoining areas. The rest was sent to Birbhum, West Midnapore and Jhargram.

EC sources said more than 1,000 companies of CPF would be deployed in this election.

"In 2019 Lok Sabha elections, around 750 companies of CPF were engaged in election duty. This year the number of booths is more than one lakh, up from around 79,000 in the Lok Sabha elections. Around 125 companies of CPF will arrive by the end of this month," said an official of the commission.

Oppn tie-up won't affect prospects: Assam BJP

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THE ruling BJP in Assam has made light of the perceived threats from the tie-up of opposition parties in the upcoming Assembly elections. The birth of two regional parties — Asom Jatiya Parishad (AJP) and Raijor Dal — and the alliance between Congress and All India United Democratic Front (AIUDF) are believed to have made the BJP's task difficult.

However, the party's state unit chief Ranjit Dass claimed two "As" would help the BJP retain power. "I am confident we will form the next government. Two 'As' are the reasons. One A stands for the 'activities' of our party workers. Another A stands for the 'achievements' of our government. Additionally, we have the blessings of people," Dass said.

He claimed the voters in Upper Assam were upset with the Congress for aligning with minority-based AIUDF and it would help the BJP in at least eight seats. "The AIUDF-Congress alliance may have some relevance in Lower Assam and Barak Valley. It is not a factor elsewhere. In Lower Assam, we have just three sitting MLAs. If at all we suffer, we will suffer there. But the mind set of Muslims has started changing. This was evident in the by-elections to Jania. We got 15,000 votes. Never before did we poll more than 5,000 votes there," Dass said.

Stating that all communities reaped the dividends of the government's welfare programmes, Dass said, there used to be incidents of violence against Muslims during the earlier Congress governments but the community had not suffered even a scratch under the BJP.

"Of the seven lakh beneficiaries of Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana, 2.8 lakh were Muslims," Dass said.

He said the AJP-Raijor Dal would not be able to wean away lakhs of votes in Upper Assam. He felt the BJP would also do well in the Bodoland Territorial Region that has 12 assembly seats.

Wage hike fails to cheer tea workers

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

TEA workers in poll-bound Assam slammed the ruling BJP on Saturday for a "meager" hike in their wages. The state government has decided to raise their daily wages by ₹50 — from ₹167 to ₹217.

"We are not happy. The government has not fulfilled its commitment and the workers' expectations. In its Vision Document of 2016, the BJP had promised a daily wage of ₹351 for the tea workers," Assam Chah Mazdoor Sangha (ACMS) general secretary Rupesh Gowala told this newspaper.

He said the ACMS, during its recent meetings with the government, had insisted on the implementation of a draft proposal of ₹351 daily wages and with retrospective effect from March 1, 2018.

The Congress, which has promised daily wages of ₹365 if voted to power, accused the BJP of betraying the tea community. "Sheer betrayal by @BJP4Assam promising to raise daily wage of tea workers to ₹351/- & after 5 yrs increasing it to ₹220. Congress' 30-day guarantee ₹365 daily wage within 30 days of coming to power," Congress MP Gaurav Gogoi tweeted.

In one-third of 126 Assembly seats, tea workers' votes determine fate of candidates

The workers of small tea gardens are not entitled to any benefits. Neither do they have any medical facilities nor are they entitled to provident fund or gratuity

Rupesh Gowal, Assam Chah Mazdoor Sangha (ACMS) general secretary

The government's decision to constitute the JB Ekka one-man committee for equal wages of workers has also met with criticism. "It is meaningless since a draft notification was issued in 2018 on the wages of workers of small tea gardens. It fixed the wages at ₹244. When the government was expected to issue the final notification in this regard, it decided to constitute this committee. This is a delaying tactic," Gowala said.

Priyanka likens Modi to autocratic kings

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

PRIYANKA Gandhi on Saturday compared PM Modi with oppressive kings of yore, saying in his second term, he was riding high on his ego and not listening to lakhs of farmers demanding a repeal of the "draconian" farm laws.

"Like autocratic, repressive kings of history, the PM has insulated himself from people. He does not understand that those who have given him power should get a patient hearing," said Priyanka. She was addressing her third 'kisan panchayat' at Baghra in Muzaffarnagar district.

In Muzaffarnagar, the Congress leader said that instead of talking to farmers, who have been protesting on Delhi borders for the last 90 days, the Prime Minister "insulted" them by calling them "terrorists, Khalistani, 'parjivi' (parasites) and 'andolanjivi' (thriving on protest) in Parliament".

India-China spl reps to pick up the thread next

MAYANK SINGH & PUSHKAR BANAKAR @ New Delhi

AS the 10th round of India-China corps commander-level talks were held on Saturday to disengage troops from other friction points along the line of actual control (LAC), sources indicated that the special representatives of the two countries on the boundary dispute were likely to meet soon. Sources said the two special representatives, National Security Advisor Ajit Doval and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi, will meet to iron out the differences in the perception of the LAC.

The two special representatives last held a video conference in June last year, setting the ball rolling for the disengagement. They have been in touch ever since, sources said.

The 10th round of talks is being held between Lt Gen P G K Menon and Chinese Major General Lin Liu. "The modalities of the disengagement will be dependent on agreements the two sides will reach during the talks," a senior Army officer said, adding it was important that a politico-military will to act was demonstrated.

Sources said both the governments had taken steps to normalise ties. The Indians had made it clear to the Chinese that the use of force would not be tolerated but discussions to ensure a positive result with regard to all outstanding issues of the LAC can be held. "The change in the approach resulted after both sides agreed to restore status quo ante at the Pangong Lake," the sources said.

Military meeting

"First a review of the process completed will be taking place and then other sectors where the standoff is taking place will be discussed. The modalities of the disengagement will be dependent on agreements the two sides will reach during the talks," a senior Army officer said about the Corps Commanders' meeting

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh had revealed the details of the disengagement process from the north and south banks of Pangong Tso in Parliament. The PLA and the Indian Army since then have disengaged with armoured vehicles, artillery guns and soldiers moving back.

The PLA has moved to the east of Finger 8 on the north bank and Indian Army is back to the Dhan Singh Thapa Post. The structures erected during the stand-off were brought down.

Similar actions have taken place in the south bank, which includes the withdrawal of Indian soldiers from the important Kailash Range, which was occupied in August 2020 end.

Kailash Range has dominating features that gave an advantage to the Indian Army.

Court seeks proof to link Disha with violence

The prosecution also submitted that Disha deleted WhatsApp chats, emails and other evidence and was aware of legal actions she could face. The deletion of chats, the police argued, showed Disha's 'guilty mind and sinister design'.

These allegations were rejected by Disha's counsel, who said: "I am 22, from Karnataka. I have no connection with the Khalistan movement. There is no single chat or conversation between me (Disha) and the (banned organisation) Sikhs For Justice (SFJ). And even if I (Disha) meet someone, there is no symbol on him that he is a secessionist."

According to the police, the Poetic Justice Foundation, which is not proscribed, had close ties with the SFJ and that makes Ravi an accomplice to alleged Khalistanis.

"The Delhi Police gave permission for the farmers' march, which they're claiming that I (Ravi) asked people to join, so how did I become seditious," Ravi's advocate Siddharth Agarwal asked.

On January 11, the police had alleged that a Zoom call was made between PJF founder M O Dhaliwal and Ravi. The police had further said several such meetings followed in the run-up to the R-Day ruckus.

The judge asked how anyone could impute wrong motives to a person over merely meeting someone with bad credentials. The judge also asked for proof to link Ravi to the January 26 violence. The police responded saying "in a conspiracy, not everyone will have the same role. Somebody influenced by the toolkit may indulge in violence."

Not satisfied, the court asked additional solicitor general S V Raju, appearing for the police, to show the contents of the toolkit that prove a direct link.

To the argument that the external link provided in the toolkit was that of a website that spoke of genocide, the judge said: "Is there any direct link or we have to make conjectures here?"

Ranchi man gives 'wings' to grandkids' dreams

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

HE never travelled in an aeroplane. But to fulfil the dreams of his grandchildren, Zakir Khan has done something that not many grandfathers have. To satisfy the demands of the youngest generation of his family, he has built a full-fledged replica of an aeroplane on his rooftop. It has become a hit and is drawing visitors to his house in Maheshpur village, about 30 kms from Ranchi.

This 'aircraft' is 28-feet long and six-feet wide. Like a plane, it has entry and exit gates with staircases, seats with seat belts, windows, a cockpit and all. Although Zakir has not seen an aeroplane in his life, he designed it based on Google search and completed building it with the help of local masons. Called 'Indigo', it cost him around ₹10 lakh.

Visitors from distant places are coming to Maheshpur to see the 'plane' | EXPRESS

"I had thought of making something unique on the top floor, but I never thought of an aeroplane. This idea came to mind because my grandchildren always asked for bigger planes whenever I bought them toy planes," says the 52-year-old, who deals in building materials. "Almost everything found in an aircraft is there," he says. Family members and villagers laughed at him when he broke the idea. His wife Asgari Khatoon even went to the extent of calling him crazy. But as his dream project started nearing completion, the mood changed. "Although made of concrete, it looks like an original aircraft made of aluminium. I am not an expert in engineering but I designed it on my own," says Zakir.

"When my husband told me that he wanted to construct a plane for the grandchildren, I called him crazy. But when it got completed, I started appreciating it," says Asgari.

The plane is drawing the attention of the entire village. "Instead of Maheshpur, people have started calling this village 'hawai nagar'," says Tabrez Khan, a villager.

Sule leads attack on BJP in civic body polls

NCP MP Supriya Sule leads the battle for the upcoming Navi Mumbai Municipal Corporation election by opening a frontal attack on BJP MLA and former minister Ganesh Naik. Naik has been ruling the Navi Mumbai Corporation for the last several years without any major opposition. However, this time, Maha Vikas Aghadi is posing a big challenge. After allegations that Ganesh Naik told his followers that international dons also recognize him, Sule said that if Naik has a connection with international dons then Home Minister Amit Shah should set up an investigation team to probe his party MLA's activities.

State real estate regulatory body gets new chief

Ajoy Mehta, a 1984-batch Indian Administrative Service officer, has been appointed as the chairman of Maharashtra's newly formed Real Estate Regulatory Authority (MHARERA) after his tenure in the Chief Minister's Office (CMO) got over. After taking charge as the new RERA chief, Ajoy Mehta told the personnel who are working with the organisation that every application for approval that they receive must be thoroughly scrutinised and delays do not matter. This is in stark contrast to the views of earlier chairman Gautam Chatterjee who used to insist that there should be no delay in approval of buildings and allotting of RERA number since the files are already approved by the respective local authorities.

Patole's bid to rejuvenate Maha Congress

After assuming charge as Maharashtra Congress president, Nana Patole seems to be attempting to infuse energy into the crumbling Congress machinery in the state by triggering controversies. Patole has alleged that film actors Amitabha Bacchan and Akshay Kumar used to tweet about rising fuel prices during the UPA regime. Now, petrol price has hit century but not even a comment has been made by these actors. "Why? Why they shut their mouths now? If they do not speak up, then the shooting of their films will be stopped," he said.

2 IAS officers in the race for chief secretary post

Two Marathi officers are in the race for the chief secretary post in the state. The incumbent chief secretary Sanjay Kumar, a 1984-batch IAS officer, will retire on February 28 and two 1985-batch IAS officers – Sitaram Kunte and Pravin Pardeshi -- are in the race for the chief secretary post of Maharashtra. Interestingly, both these IAS officers were born on the same day and year and even joined on the same day. The only difference is Kunte joined in the first half of the year while Pardeshi joined in the second half. Pardeshi was very close to former chief minister Devendra Fadnavis and even worked in the chief minister's office.

Google fires AI manager who protested peer's sacking

SAN FRANCISCO

GOOGLE said on Friday that it fired a lead artificial intelligence ethics researcher, following controversy last year over the tech giant's dismissal of a Black colleague who was an outspoken diversity advocate. "I'm fired," Margaret Mitchell announced on Twitter.

Google said that after reviewing "this manager's conduct, we confirmed that there were violations of our code of conduct, as well as of our security policies, which included the exfiltration of confidential business-sensitive documents and private data of other employees."

Mitchell's dismissal came a day after Google named one of its few Black executives, Marian Croak, as head of new center of expertise on responsible AI. "For the past six years she's been a vice president working on everything from site reliability engineering to bringing public Wi-Fi to India's railroads," senior program manager Sepi Hejazi Moghadam said of Croak in a blog announcing her new position. AFP

No medicines, no drinking water. Texas' cold storm ordeal continues

Federal relief on the way as President Biden declares a major disaster in the Lone Star state

HOUSTON

FRUSTRATED Texans queued for hours for safe drinking water on Friday, after an unprecedented and deadly "polar plunge" burst pipes and left millions in the United States state shivering without power or clean water for days.

The extreme winter weather system wreaked havoc across much of the southern and central US this week and President Joe Biden has declared a 'major disaster' for Texas that will clear the way for emergency federal relief funds.

"I'm very frustrated. I'm a diabetic. I have a 94-year-old senior as a diabetic. We haven't had no medicine. Nothing... So I'm really frustrated mentally. But I'm keeping it together," a Houston resident said.

Erica Granado, another Houston resident, said she had rushed to the site after seeing it on the news.

"I gotta be early because I knew everybody—yeah, everybody wants water and so it's a difficult time for everybody," she said, adding: "Thank God I had gas in my car."

On Friday the weather system was slowly moving northeast, where hardy New Englanders—far more used to scouring winter storms than residents of the Lone Star state—were battening down.

But even as the temperature rose above freezing in Texas—and the National Weather Service forecast weekend weather in between 10-15 degrees Celsius—state governor Greg Abbott said some 1,65,000 people were still without power Friday.

Water pressure problems meant nearly seven million Texans were being advised to boil their water before drinking it or using for cooking, said Toby Baker, who heads the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, adding that nearly 2,64,000 people were impacted by non-operational water systems.

Some residents were facing the misery of burst pipes and flooding. "It was like a waterfall was coming down and it was starting to come out of the bathroom and to the other rooms," said Birgit Kamps of Houston, adding that a neighbor helped switch off the water at the break—halting the flood, but leaving her without running water.

Texas power companies have implemented rolling blackouts in recent days to avoid grids being overloaded as residents cranked up the heat during the cold snap.

The blackouts shut down a major computer chip manufacturer, NXP Semiconductors in Austin, at a time when a worsening shortage of semiconductors is already affecting a variety of sectors including automobiles, mobile phones, game consoles and more.

Authorities opened hundreds of "warming centers" across the state. One furniture store in Houston threw open its doors to freezing residents. AFP

US Air Force orders fresh probe into racism

Washington: The US Air Force's inspector general will do a second investigation into racial and ethnic disparities across the force, service leaders said on Friday, expanding the review to include gender and additional racial categories such as Asian and American Indian. The review comes just two months after the IG released a report concluding that Black service members in the Air Force are far more likely to be probed, arrested, face disciplinary actions and be discharged for misconduct while being less likely to be promoted to higher posts

Two killed as Myanmar troops fire at protesters

YANGON

MYANMAR'S forces fired live rounds and rubber bullets at protesters in the country's second-largest city on Saturday, leaving at least two dead and about 30 injured.

Much of the country has been in uproar since the military deposed civilian leader Aung San Suu Kyi in a coup on February 1, with hundreds of thousands of demonstrators taking to the streets to protest against the junta.

On Saturday, hundreds of police and soldiers gathered at Yadanarbon shipyard in Mandalay, by the Irrawaddy river. Their presence sparked fears among nearby residents that authorities would try to arrest workers for taking part in the anti-coup movement.

Banging pots and pans in what has become a signature gesture of defiance, protesters started yelling at the police to leave and throwing rocks at them.

However, officers opened fire with live rounds, rubber bullets and slingshot balls, dispersing the alarmed protesters.

"Two people were killed," said Hlaing Min Oo, the head of a Mandalay-based volunteer emergency rescue team, adding that one of the victims was a boy shot in the head. AFP

PIO Tanden's confirmation for WH post in question

WASHINGTON

INDIAN-AMERICAN Neera Tanden, US President Joe Biden's nominee for the position of Director of White House Office of Management and Budget, is facing a challenge to her confirmation after Democratic Senator Joe Manchin announced that he would vote against her for her "overtly partisan statements".

Manchin's announcement means that unless a Republican senator comes forward to support her nomination, it is unlikely that Tanden, 50, will be confirmed for the powerful position.

Manchin, a moderate Democrat from West Virginia, said: "I believe her overtly partisan statements will have a toxic and detrimental impact on the important working relationship between members of Congress and the next director of the Office of Management and Budget."

"For this reason, I cannot support her nomination. As I have said before, we must take meaningful steps to end the political division and dysfunction that pervades our politics," he said.

The 100-member Senate is evenly split between the Republicans and the Democrats. The vote of Vice-President Kamala Harris will tilt the balance in favour of the Democrats. As such the vote of Manchin gains significance, given that a majority of the Republicans are likely to oppose the nomination of Tanden.

In the past, Tanden has referred to Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell as "Voldemort," and has battled Senator Bernie Sanders and his supporters online. PTI

GST Council mulls compensation package for FY22

As collections fall short of requirement, the Centre may continue to compensate states

ANURADHA SHUKLA @New Delhi

FINANCE minister Nirmala Sitharaman is likely to call a meeting with the state governments to decide on the GST compensation shortfall for the financial year 2021-22.

"Even as revenue collection is improving, there will be some shortfall in GST collection this year, too. So there will be again an issue of compensation. The last year arrangement was only for the FY21. So, the matter has to be discussed with the states again, in consultation with the 15th Finance Commission, to decide on the roadmap as to how it will be carried forward for the next financial year (FY: 2021-22)," said an official in the finance ministry. The official added the meeting is likely to happen either before the Budget session starts or after it commences.

The Centre had set up a special borrowing window in October 2020 to meet the estimated shortfall of ₹1.1 lakh crore in revenue arising on account of implementation of GST for the financial year 2020-21.

So far, the Centre has released ₹1 lakh crore to states and Union Territories to meet GST compensation shortfall, the Finance Ministry said on Saturday. The ministry on Friday released the 17th weekly instalment of ₹5,000 crore to 23 states and three Union Territories (Delhi, Jammu & Kashmir and Puducherry), taking the total amount released so far, under the special borrowing window set up in October last year, to ₹1 lakh crore.

Sources said that this meeting will be a single-agenda meeting, while the Council will meet separately on other issues as per the schedule. Sources added that the GST council will be also taking up the issue of merging two tax brackets, as the fitment panel suggested. However, it is unlikely to happen immediately and will be done only after seeing the collection momentum in the coming months.

NEWSCOPE

FINALLY, GOOGLE AND FB WILL BEGIN PAYING FOR 'FREE' NEWS

GURBIR SINGH

SOMETHING very important has happened that will impact the business of news for years to come. In a global first, the Australian government has tabled legislation in Parliament that will force social media heavyweights — Google and Facebook — to negotiate and settle a price with news publishers whose content they carry.

In retaliation against the legislation, Facebook blocked the news feed, and millions of Australians got up on Thursday morning to find they could not share or view news and news related features on their personal or organization's pages. Amid the consternation and protest, Western Australia Premier Mark McGowan called out FB for "behaving like a North Korean dictator". But the die has been cast, and the world-wide signal to these social media biggies, and even the smaller ones, is you have to pay for news like any other product.

News gathering and dissemination of news costs money - reporters have to be paid, there is investment in videography and other recording equipment; and then news has to be uploaded via internet and satellite lines. While news publishing companies are spending on all this, Google and FB are using this content for free to attract millions of viewers on their search engine and news feed; and then cashing in on the advertising by offering billions of eyeballs.

Making hay

While newsrooms have been closing down and thousands of journalists have lost their jobs during the pandemic, in calendar 2020, Facebook's revenue was up roughly 20 per cent to $86 billion from $70.7 billion in the previous fiscal year. Google's owners, Alphabet Inc, too turned in an income of ₹42 billion on revenues of $162 billion for 2020, a 13 per cent spike from fiscal 2019's revenue of $162 billion. Both companies' main source of income is digital advertising.

The stranglehold these companies have over digital ad revenues has been extensively documented. Of every $100 spent on online advertising, approximately $53 goes to Google, $28 to FB and $19 to all of the rest. While news organisations either fold up or retrench journalists to stay alive, these social media Goliaths continue to do well. In Australia alone, Google raked in $4.3 billion in ad revenue, while FB made $700 million. In response, Google says that the Australian law is "unworkable" as it is difficult to put a market price to the content. Both Google and FB, on the other hand, say their platforms enhance the visibility of news content by providing traffic where millions log in to 'consume' these news reports.

In India, there is no talk yet of an Australian type legislation on the agenda. News networks have been victims of free use of news content by not only FB and Google, but also by a host of other aggregator sites that skim off news content without paying for it. 'In Shorts', one such news site for instance, that caters to young millennials' penchant for news consumption in abbreviated form, turns around all stories as 60-word pieces; but its source, and whether it has signed contracts for their use, are all a grey area.

Stiff penalties

Meanwhile, the new Australian Code will be keenly watched the world over. The News Media and Digital Platforms Mandatory Bargaining Code, as the draft legislation is called, "will address the bargaining power imbalance between news media businesses and digital platforms," says Australia's Treasurer Josh Frydenberg. Media companies will be encouraged to reach commercial deals with FB and Google outside the code; but in case they can't, an arbiter will step in and implement the "final offer arbitration" and decide the quantum of remuneration.

The fines are stiff. If Google or FB refuse to negotiate and settle, the penalty is $10 million, or 10 per cent of turnover or 3 times the monetary benefit derived from the news content, which is highest. FB pulling the plug on news feeds meanwhile is also a warning to others thinking of implementing an Australian-type code. There is a war brewing. However, seeing the writing on the wall, Google has taken the lead to reach 'voluntary' settlements for news flow.

Google and NewsCorp have recently reached a three-year deal wherein NewsCorp will receive 'significant' payments when stories from its publications such as the Wall Street Journal, Barron's, New York Post and Times of London and dozens of Australian papers are featured in the Google News Showcase. Google has also reached an agreement in January with an association of French publishers over how it will be paid for reuse of snippets of their content.

Despite all the sabre rattling by tech companies, news publishers can now look forward to formal and informal arrangements for monetizing their news flow. Hopefully, it will breathe some life into their business plans.

FM urges pvt sector to bring in investments

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

CALLING for bigger investments from the private sector, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Saturday said that the Centre has extended its full support during Covid-19 and now it is time that the private sectors unleash their "animal spirit" to make India one of the fastest growing economies of the world.

"Policies are clear, policy consistency has been underlined. I would like now, to see private investors and private industry in India coming forward with that so-called animal spirit," Sitharaman said, while highlighting the policy measures taken under the Atmanirbhar Bharat package and those announced in the Budget.

She was delivering the inaugural address at the 65th Foundation day of All Indian Management Association (AIMA) and 15th National Management Day. Setting aside criticism over aggressive divestment drive, Sitharaman said that disinvestment does not mean the government wants those undertakings to be closed down but wants those companies (PSUs) to be run better, improve productivity. "I am answerable for taxpayer's money being used productively... and it should be spent on those who need all the support," she said adding that government will stay away from the core sector.

SBI Payments to launch YONO merchant app

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Bengaluru

INDIA's largest lender, State Bank of India, will launch a YONO merchants app to enable 20 million merchants from tier 2, 3 cities to adopt digital payments.The lender plans to deploy low-cost acceptance infrastructure across India over the next two years targeting the potential merchants across India in the Retail and Enterprise segment. The initiative will enable near field communication (NFC) enabled smartphones of merchants to turn into Point-of-sale devices after downloading the app.

"YONO Merchant App will expand digitization of merchant payments in the country," SBI said in a statement.

SBI said that it has partnered with Visa for the on-the-Tap phone feature, which aims to give the necessary boost to scale up acceptance infrastructure across the country. The state-run lender also said that the launch is in line with the Reserve Bank of India's recent announcement of creating a Payments Infrastructure Development Fund (PIDF) to encourage acquirers to deploy Point of Sale (PoS) infrastructure (both physical and digital) in lesser penetrated areas of the country. Merchants will now be able to turn their NFC enabled Android smartphones into payment acceptance devices through a simple mobile app. This initiative will help boost digital payments acceptance infrastructure in tier 3, 4 as well as north eastern cities.

"In the next 2-3 years, we are aiming to digitize millions of merchants by upgrading their mobile phones into a PoS device accepting all form factors, accessing Value Added Services such as loyalty, GST invoicing, inventory management, etc," said SBI Chairman Dinesh Kumar Khara.

'We're seeing sequential improvement in sales but full recovery looks distant'

ARSHAD KHAN @New Delhi

RAYMOND Ltd, one of India's most prominent players in the textile market, said sequential improvement in the company's performance is encouraging even as full recovery may take some more time. The fashion retailer had recently reported consolidated net profit of ₹22.18 crore for the quarter ending December 2020 as against a net loss of ₹136.59 crore in the quarter ended September 2020.

Year-on-year, however, PAT was down 89 per cent. In an exclusive chat with The New Indian Express, Gautam Singhania, chairman and managing director of Raymond Group, said it may take up to six quarters for the economy to fully recover. Excerpts:

By when do you expect to see real economic growth?
Economy is still in the recovery phase. Different sectors are seeing varied elements of recovery. I am hopeful that things should get better because India's economy has done better in terms of the Covid-19 impact. However, the emergence of a new strain is a worry. I think it would take 4-6 quarters (annualized basis) to come back to the pre-Covid level. If you take FY22, Q1 may not be 100 per cent of what it should be, but the Feb-March 2022 run-rate would be a good.

How has the performance of textile business been in recent months?
Quarter-on-quarter it is improving. The branded apparel segment is witnessing a gradual recovery led by festive and marriage demand during October-November. However, in December, the secondary sales were impacted due to lower walk-ins as certain restrictions on travel and mall timings continued. We are focusing on working capital management led by inventory reduction.

What is the current status of export business?
Export is tough. The recovery is lower in exports due to lower demand on account of the second wave of lockdown in the US and Europe markets where customers deferred their dispatch schedule. International market is going to take another quarter to see some recovery.

But, t he good thing about Europe and American Market is that vaccination is going at a very fast pace. That should expedite the recovery.

Past, present, and future come together at L&T's digital experience centre

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

LARSEN & TOUBRO's newest project is a time machine of sorts—one that bridges the company's past, present, and future together in a high-tech array of digitally-driven experiences. Called Planet L&T, the corporate experience centre is located in Powai, Mumbai at the company's new corporate office tower, and occupies over 11,500 square feet of space.

The company's spokespersons say the center is aimed at giving visitors a peek into its 80-year plus legacy, the history of its growth from Mumbai, and its vision for the future. "At Planet L&T, visitors can experience the whole of L&T's journey—not just what we have achieved and built in the past, but also what we are doing now, and our vision for the future. The experience centre has twelve different zones, including an immersive zone where visitors can view some of our most iconic projects and products, and a Deep Dive zone showcasing technology," said Yuvraj Mehta, Head, Corporate Brand Management & Communications, Larsen & Toubro.

Any visitor to Planet L&T is greeted right off the bat by the center's very own robot hostess Elle, something that only underscores the perception that while the center displays a lot of L&T's past glories, the focus is on the future and technology is where the priorities lie. According to the firm, "Planet L&T talks in a technology idiom... Thus, the medium is the message". After the welcome dome with Elle, where a short film is played on a mini-planetarium style screen, the visitor can experience a series of themed zones—one displays all milestones it has achieved.

Mount extends Tuchel's unbeaten start at Chelsea

Mason Mount preserved Thomas Tuchel's unbeaten record as the Chelsea midfielder equalised from the penalty spot to earn a 1-1 draw at Southampton on Saturday. Tuchel's side trailed to a first half goal from Takumi Minamino at St Mary's. Mount came to the rescue as he won and converted the second half spot-kick.

Japanese dismisses Brady in straight sets to clinch Australian Open, preserves her 100 percent record in Slam finals

AP @ Melbourne

THE trouble for Naomi Osaka at Grand Slam tournaments comes in Week 1. Get beyond that stage at the hard-court Majors, though, and start preparing to etch her name on the trophy.

Osaka won her fourth title in her past eight appearances at a Slam, emerging from what initially was a tight Australian Open final and pulling away by grabbing six consecutive games to beat Jennifer Brady 6-4, 6-3 on Saturday.

With strong serving that produced six aces, Osaka improved to 4-0 in Major finals, the first woman to start her career that way since Monica Seles did it 30 years ago. For Osaka, that is part of a 12-0 record so far in the quarterfinals, semifinals and finals at the Majors. "She played really well when she had to," Brady said. "She hit good shots when she needed them."

Osaka is also on a 21-match winning streak that dates to last season. That includes a championship at last year's US Open. She also won the US Open in 2018, and the Australian Open in 2019. "Tonight it wasn't meant to be," Brady said after participating in her first Grand Slam final at age 25. "Hopefully there's many more."

The 23-year-old Osaka was born in Japan to a Japanese mother and Haitian father, and moved to the United States with her family when she was 3.

MASTER AND APPRENTICE

One of the next-gen's most likely torch-bearers faces Mr Melbourne Park in the men's final on Sunday. Here's a look at some of the talking points ahead of Djokovic vs Medvedev

Novak Djokovic, Serbia		Daniil Medvedev Russia
33	Age	25
1	Ranking	4
17	Majors	0
4	H2H	3

DJOKOVIC, PAIN-FREE
What the Serb showed against Aslan Karatsev in the semifinal is ominous. He's injury-free after being troubled by an abdominal niggle. The Russian has beaten Djokovic in three of their last four attempts. But the World No 1 is one the sport's great problem solvers.

THE RUSSIAN'S FORM
There is more than a case to be for saying Medvedev is the most in-form player now. He hasn't lost a match since October. His 20 match run has seen him drop just seven sets and it's also involved a 6-3, 6-3 shellacking of the Serbian himself at the year-end finals.

Focus on D/N pitch with dew respect

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

GREEN top has been a common characteristic in 13 out of 15 pink ball Tests played so far. It includes Eden Gardens' pitch which was the only instance when India have played a day-night Test at home. As India prepare to face England in Ahmedabad, which will be a day-night affair, it is once again the pitch, which is in the limelight.

The perception with regards to D/N Tests has been that grass cover on the pitch will ensure the pink ball doesn't lose colour easily. Considering it a factor, curators have ended up leaving a fair amount of grass that will last right through the Test so that the pink ball doesn't lose its shine. This also means the seamers have enjoyed bowling with the pink ball, which has a tendency to swing more than the red cherry. It is not that spinners have found the ball to be a difficult one to bowl with. In the D/N Test in Australia in December, R Ashwin found turn scalping five in the match.

With the series tied 1-1, India can't afford to lose another Test should they wish to qualify for the ICC World Test Championship final. A win and a draw is all that they need to meet New Zealand in the summit clash in June. Going by the visuals shared by England team's media manager, the grass cover on the pitch is getting reduced each day, with the red soil visible in patches. With three more days to go for the Test, how much of it remains is the question. But if it ends up on the greener side, the visitors would feel more at home than India, never mind how potent the hosts' pace attack is.

Eden Gardens' Ashish Bowmick, who prepared the pitch for D/N Test against Bangladesh, is overseeing the preparations at the Sardar Patel Stadium alongside local curator Jayesh Patel. The indications are that the duo might take a cue from the two pitches that were used at Dubai where spinners called the shots with the pink ball played on dry surfaces that had no grass cover.

On Saturday, Cheteshwar Pujara said the inexperience of the Indian players with the pink ball is making it difficult to say whether grass cover is needed or not. Though India have two day-night Tests to their name, both have been played with two different balls – SG and Kookaburra. "It is difficult to say anything about it because we've played only one day-night Test with the SG ball. It is difficult to say whether you need grass cover or not. We are at a stage where we don't have that much of experience as players, but we are trying to figure out," Pujara said.

In the one practice session India have had under lights, they believe dew would play a role in the final session, which means spinners could find it hard to operate. As grass cover goes, Pujara said it's better to wait and watch.

No Pandya

Hardik Pandya is unlikely to feature in the third Test. It is understood that India don't want to risk him by featuring in the longer format.

ISHAN IN T20I SQUAD

Jharkhand's Ishan Kishan has been named in India's squad for the T20Is against England starting next month. Suryakumar Yadav is also in the squad.

Squad: Kohli (C), Rohit (vc), Rahul, Dhawan, Iyer, Suryakumar, Hardik, Pant (wk), Kishan (wk), Chahal, Varun, Axar, Washington, Tewatia, Natarajan, Bhuvneshwar, Deepak, Saini, Thakur.

Karnataka lose to UP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

BRIEF SCORE: Karnataka: 246/8 in 50 overs [Devdutt Padikkal 52, Aniruddha Joshi 68, Shivam Sharma 3/40] lt to Uttar Pradesh: 215/4 in 45.2 ovs [Abhishek Goswami 54, Rinku Singh 62 n.o] by 9 runs via VJD method.

KARNATAKA were stunned by Uttar Pradesh, who beat the defending champions by nine runs via VJD method in the Vijay Hazare Trophy at the M Chinnaswamy Stadium here on Saturday. On the back of some impressive hitting by Aniruddha Joshi, Karnataka managed to score 246/8. But, an unbeaten 62 by Rinku Singh helped Uttar Pradesh inch closer to the target before rain played spoilsport.

Karnataka batsmen, once again, like in Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy last month, failed to convert their starts. Devdutt Padikkal (52), KV Siddharth (38) and Karun Nair (33) failed to score big. Only Aniruddha made a big impact, with a quickfire 68 from 48 balls, pushing Karnataka to 246.

In reply, Uttar Pradesh openers Abhishek Goswami (54) and Karan Sharma (40) were inolved in a good partnership of 102. Though they slid to 150-4, Singh took the attack to the opposition. In wicket-keeper Upendra Yadav, Singh, who hit seven fours and a six, found an able support as the duo were involved in an unbeaten 65-run partnership, which just proved to be enough as the heavens also opened up late in the game.

Medals for all women boxers

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

IN 2015, Alfiya Pathan wanted to be a badminton player when she joined the Divisional Sports Complex at Nagpur. However, her interest soon switched to boxing as she watched youngsters training in the ring under coach Arun Bute. Given that her elder brother Shakib Pathan was also pursuing boxing, Alfiya decided to give the sport a try.

Six years later, on Saturday, she claimed India's first gold at the 30th Adriatic Pearl Tournament in Bar, Montenegro. Such was dominance of Indian girls that all ten assured themselves a medal in the meet.

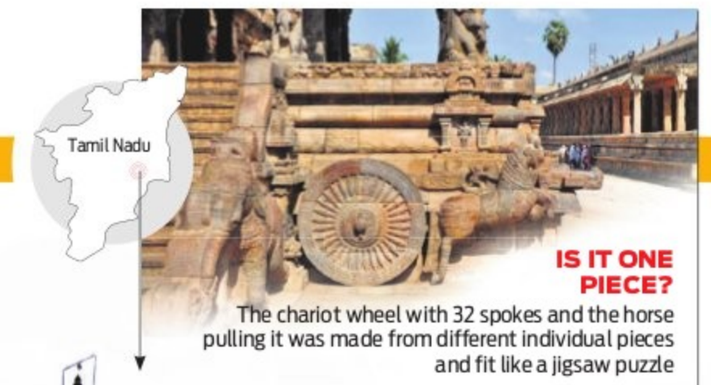
STORIES IN STONE

Standing tall in the Darasuram town in Thanjavur district, this 12th century Shiva temple was built by Raja Raja Chola II, who ruled from 1146 to 1163 CE. The legend is that its deity was worshipped by Indira's white elephant Airavatam, hence the name Airavateshwara. It is one of the Great Living Chola Temples and a UNESCO World Heritage Site



IS IT ONE PIECE?

The chariot wheel with 32 spokes and the horse pulling it was made from different individual pieces and fit like a jigsaw puzzle

Eighty-three pillars in the Rajagambhira mandapa. One can also see Yazhis or the mythical creatures on the outer pillars of the mandapa is the structure over the sanctum-sanctorum or the Garbagriha. The temple has two vimanas, one for the main deity Shiva and another for his consort. The main vimana is 85 ft tall with four-storeys and a shikara on top

BASALT SCULPTURES

Many sculptures with sharp, distinct features carved from the black shiny stone basalt are found in the temple, in addition to the regular granite sculptures

05

life-size basalt sculptures of deities Lakshmi, Ganga, Adigara-nandhi, Kannappanayanmar, and Saraswathi found in the maha mandapa stand as testimony to the skilled artisans of the later-Chola period. These sculptures are chiseled from head-to-toe in minutest detail

STORY-BOARD

One can see the real meaning of story-boards in this picturesque monument, crafted with aesthetic dexterity. Miniature stories from Hindu mythologies such as Skanda Purana, Kiratarjuniya, the story of Shiva and Manmatha, and Ravana lifting Kailasha are sculpted on small rectangular story panels throughout the pillars and walls of the temple sculptures of women with a pot in one hand and water waves from the waist down, like a mermaid are found on the vimana. Historians have identified seven such river goddesses

07

BUDDHA STATUE

Cholas were great patrons of Buddhism; there is a sculpture of even Buddha in this temple

ARASALAR

Darasuram is located on the banks of River Arasalar, a tributary of the Cauvery. Arasalar separates Darasuram from Kumbakonam, well-known for its many ancient temples

63

Nayanmars (Shaivite saints) as described in Periyapuranam, a literary work by a contemporary poet Sekkizhar, are depicted in miniature panels

RAJAGAMBHIRA MANDAPA

The mukha mandapa at the entrance of the enclosure is also known as the Rajagambhira mandapa. The entry to the mandapa is designed like a chariot pulled by a horse. The design might look similar to the chariot in the Sun Temple, but was built almost a century earlier

RAJAGOPURAM

The main gopuram at the eastern entrance, also known as the Rajagopuram was once a colossal structure with seven storeys. Now the structure lies in ruins. The second inner gopuram which is relatively smaller with three storeys, is still intact

DID YOU KNOW

Raja Raja II was also known as Rajagambhira. The temple was initially known as Rajarajeshwaram, then Rarasuram. In due course, the town itself came to be known as Darasuram

1st case of H5N8 flu in humans found in Russia

Highly contagious avian influenza strain is lethal for birds, but had never been reported to have spread to humans

HEALTH

MOSCOW: Russia said Saturday its scientists had detected the first case of transmission of the H5N8 strain of avian flu to humans and had alerted the World Health Organization.

In televised remarks, the head of Russia's health watchdog Rospotrebnadzor, Anna Popova, said scientists at the Vektor laboratory had isolated the strain's genetic material from seven workers at a poultry farm in southern Russia, where an outbreak was recorded among the birds in Dec.

The workers did not suffer any serious health consequences, she added.

"Information about the world's first case of transmission of the avian flu (H5N8) to humans has already been sent to the World Health Organization,", Popova said.

There are different subtypes of avian influenza viruses.

While the highly contagious strain H5N8 is lethal for birds it has never before been reported to have spread to humans.

Popova praised "the important scientific discovery," saying "time will tell" if the virus can further mutate.

"The discovery of these mutations when the virus has not still acquired an ability to transmit from human to human gives us all, the entire world, time to prepare for possible mutations and react in an adequate and timely fashion," Popova said.

People can get infected with avian and swine influenza viruses, such as bird flu subtypes A(H5N1) and A(H7N9) and swine flu subtypes such as A(H1N1). As per the WHO, people usually get infected through direct contact with animals or contaminated environments, and there is no sustained transmission among humans.

H5N1 in people can cause severe disease and has a 60 percent mortality rate.

Located in Koltsovo outside the Siberian city of Novosibirsk, the Vektor State Virology and Biotechnology Center has developed one of Russia's several coronavirus vaccines.

In the Soviet era the top-secret lab conducted secret biological weapons research and still stockpiles viruses ranging from Ebola to smallpox.

Vektor head Rinat Maksyutov said the lab was ready to begin developing test kits that would help detect potential cases of H5N8 in humans and to begin work on a vaccine. The Soviet Union was a scientific powerhouse and Russia has sought to reclaim a leadership role in vaccine research under Vladimir Putin.

Russia registered coronavirus vaccine Sputnik V in August, months before Western competitors and even before large-scale clinical trials.

After initial scepticism in the West, the Lancet this month published results showing the Russian vaccine to be safe and effective. On Saturday, Russia said it had registered its third vaccine against the coronavirus, CoviVac, and promised to begin using the jab by March.

FACT OF THE MATTER

200 mn jabs administered

MEDICINE

More than 200 million coronavirus vaccine doses have been administered in at least 107 countries and territories, according to an AFP count based on official sources Saturday. In total 201,042,149 doses had been given worldwide by 1000 GMT – a figure that does not include the latest data from China and Russia, who have stopped making their progress public in recent days. Some 45% of the injections took places in countries belonging to the wealthy G7 club, whose members account for just 10% of the global population. Its seven countries -- the US, Canada, Britain, Germany, France, Italy and Japan -- promised to share doses fairly with worse-off countries.

Medical data on Facebook

HEALTH

Facebook has started blocking sensitive health information that third-party apps had been sharing with the social network in violation of its own rules, said New York officials who investigated the situation. Data fed into a Facebook analytics tool by app makers included medical diagnoses, according to a report shared by New York financial services department on Thursday. "By continuing to do business with app developers that broke the rule, Facebook put itself in a position to profit from sensitive data that it was never supposed to receive in the first place," state financial services superintendent Linda Lacewell said.

MAMMOTH MAKEOVER FOR PAK ZOO

CONSERVATION

A rundown Pakistan zoo once home to what was dubbed the "world's loneliest elephant" and notorious for housing animals in cramped concrete enclosures has launched an ambitious $7.5 million makeover plan. Animal rights activists had campaigned against the plight of Islamabad Zoo's biggest attraction -- a 35-year-old bull named Kaavan, the last remaining Asian elephant in the country -- who had lived alone since the death of his mate. Kaavan was transferred to Cambodia late last year in a blaze of publicity. While the elephant now has hundreds of acres to roam alongside dozens of companions in northern Cambodia, his last years in Pakistan were anything but tranquil. Islamabad Zoo was bereft of any natural vegetation and many animals there developed classic caged behaviour, such as constant swaying or repetitive pacing. Conditions were so bad that a High Court judge last year ordered it closed, and every animal to be relocated -- an exercise in itself that ended in tragedy.

VACCINE REGIMEN

Study: 3-month gap between Oxford doses gives more protection

MEDICINE

PARIS: A three-month interval between doses of the Oxford Covid-19 vaccine results in higher vaccine efficacy than a six-week gap, according to a new study which says the first dose can offer up to 76 per cent protection in the months between the two jabs.

The results of the analysis from a phase 3 randomised controlled trial, published in The Lancet journal, suggest that the interval between doses can be safely extended to three months given the protection a single dose offers.

India is currently spacing out the doses by 28 days.

According to the researchers, including those from the University of Oxford in the UK, this dosage regimen is beneficial while vaccine supplies are initially limited, and may allow countries to immunise a larger proportion of the population more rapidly.

"Vaccine supply is likely to be limited, at least in the short term, and so policy-makers must decide how best to deliver doses to achieve the greatest public health benefit," said study lead author Professor Andrew Pollard from the University of Oxford.

Pollard believes policies of initially vaccinating more people with a single dose may provide greater immediate population protection than immunising half the number of people with two doses, especially in places where the Oxford vaccine is in limited supply.

"In the long term, a second dose should ensure long-lived immunity, and so we encourage everyone who has had their first vaccine to ensure they receive both doses," he added.

From the study, the researchers sought to understand the effect of different intervals on protection after the second dose, and the risk of infection between jabs -- either due to lower efficacy of a single dose, or rapid waning of efficacy while waiting for the second dose.

They combined data from clinical trials in the UK, Brazil, and South Africa, which together included a total of 17,178 adult participants.

These participants either received two standard doses of the Oxford COVID-19 vaccine, or a control vaccine/saline placebo. In the UK trial, they said a subset of participants received a lower dose of the vaccine as their first dose.

The scientists compared the number of symptomatic COVID-19 cases in the control and COVID-19 vaccine groups, occurring more than 14 days after the second dose.

They also estimated the impact of one or two doses of the vaccine on reducing COVID-19 cases as an indicator of how the vaccine might help to reduce transmission in the community.

To evaluate the efficacy of a single dose, the authors assessed participants who had taken their first standard dose but tested positive for Covid-19 more than 21 days afterwards. People who were given their doses 12 or more weeks apart had greater protection than people given their two doses less than six weeks apart.
